Task 1. Social Media Marketing by Two Daily-Use Apps

Instagram

Instagram uses visually attractive content such as Reels, Stories, carousel posts, influencer collaborations, hashtags, and user-generated content to attract new users. Its algorithm recommends engaging videos to people who do not yet follow an account, which helps brands, creators, and businesses reach a wider audience. Instagram also encourages users to spend more time on the app through features such as live videos, polls, filters, and shopping tools. For example, fashion and food brands use influencer-created Reels to display products in an entertaining and relatable way.

Zomato

Zomato uses humorous memes, short videos, food-related posts, trending topics, and real-time conversations to build a strong online identity. Its witty posts on Instagram and X make the brand relatable to young consumers, while food images, restaurant promotions, and user-generated content encourage people to download and use the app. Zomato also connects social media campaigns with festivals, cricket events, and food trends. Its meme-led content has reportedly generated significant impressions, shares, and user-generated posts, helping the brand increase awareness and engagement.

Task 2: Comparison of Facebook, Instagram, and LinkedIn

Platform	Target audience	Main content types	Best business use case
Facebook	Broad audience, including families, adults, local communities, and existing customers	Text posts, images, videos, groups, events, polls, live videos, and advertisements	Suitable for B2C businesses, local businesses, community building, customer service, and retargeting
Instagram	Gen Z, millennials, creators, lifestyle audiences, and mobile-first consumers	Reels, Stories, images, carousels, influencer content, live videos, and product tags	Best for B2C and D2C brands, especially fashion, beauty, food, travel, fitness, and lifestyle products
LinkedIn	Business professionals, managers, founders, recruiters, decision-makers, and industry experts	Industry articles, professional updates, case studies, company news, reports, videos, and job posts	Best for B2B marketing, lead generation, employer branding, recruitment, and professional networking

Instagram is generally the strongest choice for visually driven D2C products because it combines discovery, creator promotion, short-form video, and product presentation. LinkedIn is more effective when the goal is to reach companies or professional decision-makers, while Facebook is useful for reaching a broad consumer market and maintaining an active customer community.

Task 3: Best platform for a new D2C fashion brand in 2026

I would prioritize Instagram for launching a new D2C fashion brand in 2026.

Instagram is suitable because fashion is highly visual and customers want to see how clothing looks, fits, and can be styled. The brand could use Reels to show outfit transformations, styling tips, behind-the-scenes production, customer reviews, and seasonal collections. It could also work with micro-influencers who have smaller but highly engaged audiences.

Instagram would also support a relatively short customer journey: a user can discover an outfit through a Reel, view the product through a tagged post, visit the brand profile, and purchase through the website or shopping feature. Expected 2026 trends include short-form video, livestream shopping, AI-supported personalization, creator partnerships, and social-commerce features that allow consumers to discover and purchase products within social platforms.

A possible launch plan would include:

- Three to five Reels per week showing outfits and styling ideas.
- Collaborations with fashion creators and local micro-influencers.
- Customer-generated content using a branded hashtag.
- Instagram Stories featuring polls, countdowns, product questions, and limited-time offers.

- Retargeting advertisements for people who watched videos or visited the product website.

Task 4: Differences between B2B and B2C social media marketing

Difference	B2B social media marketing	B2C social media marketing	Example
Audience and decision-making	Targets a smaller group of professional decision-makers. Purchases may involve research, approval, and several people.	Targets individual consumers, who may make faster and more emotional purchase decisions.	Microsoft uses LinkedIn content and business case studies for professional audiences, while Zomato uses humorous posts to influence individual food-ordering decisions.
Content style	Focuses on expertise, trust, data, case studies, industry reports,	Focuses on entertainment, visual appeal, emotions,	HubSpot shares marketing guides and educational content, while webinars, and solutions to business problems.	discounts, trends, and product benefits.	Nike uses visually powerful campaigns, athlete stories, and short videos.

Main objective	Generates qualified leads, builds professional relationships, demonstrates expertise, and supports long-term sales.	Creates awareness, encourages immediate purchases, increases engagement, and builds customer loyalty.	Salesforce uses LinkedIn to promote business solutions and events, whereas Myntra uses Instagram influencers, fashion content, and sale campaigns to drive consumer purchases.

Task 1. Comparison of Facebook Ad Types

Meta describes an ad format as the layout that determines how an advertisement appears and how many images or videos it contains. Its main formats include single image/video, carousel, and collection ads.

Ad type	Format	Ideal use case	Example brand or campaign
Static ad	One still image, headline, primary text, call-to-action button, and link.	Best for communicating one clear offer, product benefit, announcement, or brand message quickly.	McDonald's limited-time offer: A product image with text such as "Get your favourite burger at ₹99."
Video ad	A short video, often with sound, captions, movement, product demonstrations, or storytelling.	Suitable for brand awareness, tutorials, product demonstrations, emotional storytelling, and app feature launches.	Nike "Just Do It" campaign: Short inspirational videos connecting sport with motivation.
Carousel ad	Two or more images or videos displayed as swipeable cards. Each card can	Useful for showing multiple products, explaining several features,	Myntra fashion collection: Separate cards for men's wear, women's wear, have its own headline, link, and call to action. Meta allows up to 10 images or videos in a carousel.	presenting steps, or telling a story in sequence.	footwear, and accessories.

Collection ad	A large cover image or video followed by smaller product images. Tapping the ad can open a full-screen Instant Experience for browsing products.	Ideal for e-commerce brands that want to take customers from product discovery to browsing and purchase.	IKEA home collection: A lifestyle image followed by products such as tables, chairs, lamps, and storage units.

Main difference

A static ad focuses on one message, a video ad focuses on movement and storytelling, a carousel displays multiple items or ideas, and a collection ad creates a more shopping-oriented product discovery experience.

Task 2. Facebook Ad Copy for a New App Feature

Selected app: Zomato

New feature: Group Food Ordering

Ad type: Carousel ad

I would use a carousel ad because the feature has several benefits that can be explained through separate cards. Users can swipe through the cards to understand how group ordering works, making the format more informative than a single image.

Sample ad copy

Primary text:

Planning a meal with friends? Make ordering easier with Zomato Group Ordering!

Invite your friends, let everyone add their favourite dishes, and place one combined order—without endless messages or payment confusion.

Headline:

One group. One order. Everyone's favourite food.

Carousel cards:

Card	Visual idea	Headline
1	Friends deciding what to eat	Start a group order
2	People adding dishes on their phones	Everyone adds their favourites
3	Shared cart showing multiple dishes	One cart for the whole group
4	Delivery arriving at the group's location	Enjoy more, coordinate less

Call to action: Try It Now

Why this format works

The carousel can demonstrate the feature step by step. It also allows Zomato to show different use cases, such as office lunches, college gatherings, family meals, and house parties.

Task 3. Example of a Real Campaign Research Approach

For this section, I would use the Meta Ad Library, which is a searchable database of advertisements running across Meta platforms. Ads can be searched by advertiser or keyword, and an ad usually appears in the library within 24 hours after receiving its first impression.

Selected campaign example: Spotify student promotion

Target audience: College students and young music listeners.

Likely campaign objective: App Installs or Traffic.

Observed or expected campaign clues

A Spotify student-focused advertisement would probably include:

- Text referring to students, student plans, or affordable music access.
- Visuals featuring young people listening to music while studying, travelling, or relaxing.
- A button such as Install Now, Get Offer, or Sign Up.
- A link directing users to the Spotify app or subscription page.

Reasoning

I would identify the objective as App Installs if the call-to-action says “Install Now” and directs people to download the app. The campaign would be designed to increase the number of students who install the Spotify application.

If the ad instead directs existing users to a webpage to claim a student discount, the likely objective would be Traffic or Sales/Conversions, depending on the campaign setup.

The visual and copy would also indicate a student audience. For example, phrases such as “Your music, your student budget” would show that the advertisement is designed for price-sensitive college users. However, the exact campaign objective cannot be confirmed only from the public creative; the advertiser’s Ads Manager settings would be required for certainty. The Meta Ad Library is mainly useful for examining the ad’s copy, format, creative, and call-to-action.

4. Sample Audience for a Music Playlist App

Campaign goal

Promote a new music playlist app and encourage young users to download it and create their first playlist.

Suggested audience

Targeting criterion	Sample selection	How it helps
Age	16–28 years	This group is highly active on mobile apps and regularly consumes music and short-form digital content.
Interest	Spotify, YouTube Music, Apple Music, Gaana, music festivals, Bollywood music, independent music, podcasts, and headphones	Interest-based targeting helps reach people who already show an active connection with music or audio entertainment.
Location	Ahmedabad, Rajkot, Surat, Vadodara, Mumbai, Delhi, Bengaluru, and Pune	These cities contain large student and young-professional populations and provide a useful starting market for testing.
Behaviour or device	Smartphone users, Android and iOS users, frequent app users	The campaign can focus on people who are more likely to download and use a mobile application.
Language	English, Hindi, and Gujarati	Multilingual creatives can improve understanding and emotional connection, especially in regional markets.

Sample audience description

People aged 16–28 in major Indian cities, especially Ahmedabad and Rajkot, who are interested in music-streaming services, Bollywood music, indie artists, playlists, concerts, podcasts, and headphones.

Why this audience is appropriate

The age targeting focuses the budget on people likely to use music applications frequently. Interest targeting identifies potential users based on their existing music behaviour, while location targeting allows the advertiser to begin with selected cities instead of spending the entire budget across India.

The campaign could use separate ad sets for:

- Students aged 16–21.
- Young professionals aged 22–28.
- Gujarati-speaking users in Gujarat.
- Hindi- and English-speaking users in larger Indian cities.

This structure would make it easier to compare which audience produces the lowest cost per installation.

5. How the Facebook Ads Auction Works

The Facebook or Meta advertising auction decides which eligible advertisement is shown to a particular person at a particular time. The winning ad is not necessarily the one with the highest bid. Meta evaluates a combination of the advertiser's bid, estimated action rate, and ad quality.

Example audience

Suppose three brands want to show advertisements to 18–21-year-olds in Ahmedabad:

Brand	Advertisement	Main objective
Food delivery app	"Get ₹150 off on your first order"	App installs or purchases
Fashion store	"College fashion under ₹999"	Website traffic or sales
Cricket streaming service	"Watch today's match live"	App installs or engagement

Possible auction outcome

Brand	Bid	Ad quality and relevance	Estimated action rate	Likely result
Food delivery app	High	Good offer, but average creative	Medium	Competitive
Fashion store	Medium	Attractive college-focused creative	High	Very competitive
Cricket streaming service	Medium-high	Highly relevant	Very High	Most likely to win at match time

		during a live match

The cricket streaming service may win even without offering the highest bid because its ad is highly relevant to the audience at that moment. A young person interested in cricket is more likely to click “Watch Now” when a match is about to begin.

Factors that determine the winner

1. Bid amount

   This represents how much the advertiser is willing to pay for the desired result, such as a click, installation, or purchase.

2. Estimated action rate

   Meta predicts how likely a specific person is to respond to the ad. An advertisement with a strong expected click or conversion rate can perform better than one with a larger bid but weak expected response.

3. Ad quality

   Meta evaluates factors such as user feedback, misleading claims, sensational language, clickbait, and whether people hide or report the ad. Poor-quality advertising can reduce an ad’s competitiveness.

4. Audience relevance

   The ad must match the person’s interests and likely needs. A cricket ad is more relevant to a cricket fan, while a fashion ad may be more relevant to someone who frequently engages with clothing content.

5. Timing and competition

The number of advertisers competing for the same audience also affects delivery. Cricket-related advertising may become especially competitive during an important match or tournament.

Simple conclusion

If all three brands target the same young audience, the winner is determined by the advertisement's overall value, not merely its bid. For example, the cricket service may win during a live match because it has strong relevance and a high estimated action rate, while the fashion store may win at another time if its creative receives more engagement from college students.

Task 1: Instagram placements: Feed vs Stories vs Reels (sneaker launch)

Dimension	Instagram Feed	Instagram Stories	Instagram Reels
Primary audience behavior	Scroll-driven, mixed intent (browse + shop); more deliberate taps.	Fast, ephemeral, urgency-driven; users check in briefly throughout the day.	Discovery-first, entertainment mindset; long session times, high completion rates.
Who you mostly reach	Followers + some Explore; broader but competitive attention.	Mostly existing followers; great for retargeting and warm audiences.	Many non-followers; ~55% of views from people who don't follow you.
Sound	Usually off by default.	Off by default (~50% sound-on).	On by default; 60%+ sound-on, audio matters.
Best ad formats for sneakers	Carousel (multiple colourways), single image (hero shot), short video (lifestyle).	Full-screen vertical image/video with stickers (poll: “Which color?”), link tap, countdown.	9:16 vertical video (15–30s): try-on, transitions, UGC, creator reviews.
Creative style that works	Clean product visuals,	Raw, behind-the-scenes, limited-	Trend-led edits, music, quick cuts, price/discount badges, social proof (ratings).	time drops, interactive elements.	"before/after" styling, creator POV.

Funnel role	Mid-funnel consideration & retargeting; strong for clicks to PDP.	Retargeting & urgency (launch countdown, flash sale).	Top-funnel reach & awareness; discovery of new sneaker models.
CPM tendency (relative)	Highest of the three.	Mid-range.	Lowest; best value for reach.
Key KPI focus	CTR, add-to-cart, product page views.	Link taps, sticker interactions, reply rate.	3s/ThruPlays, completion rate, saves/shares, profile visits.

Implication for a new sneaker launch: Use Reels for broad awareness (new colourway reveal, creator try-ons), Feed carousels for consideration (all angles, sizes, prices), and Stories for urgency (drop countdown, "Swipe to cop" with retargeting).

Task 2: Three Instagram Stories hooks for a Zomato-style food-delivery app

1. "Still hungry? Your assignment can wait. Your biryani shouldn't."
2. "What if your next lecture break came with fries?"
3. "Hungry right now? Open the app. Your cravings already know what they want."

Task 3: Flipkart Product Landing Page Analysis

Product: BOLTT EVO (Sky Blue, 64 GB, 4 GB RAM)

3 elements that help convert visitors into buyers

1. Clear pricing and discount
    - The product is listed at ₹9,999, reduced from ₹17,999, showing a 44% discount.
    - This immediately communicates value and creates a strong price incentive.
2. Ratings, reviews and verified-buyer content
    - The product has a 4.3-star rating based on 1,543 ratings from verified buyers.
    - Customer photos and reviews provide social proof and help reduce uncertainty before purchase.
3. Strong product visuals and easy purchase action
    - Multiple product images show the phone from different angles, including real customer-uploaded images.
    - The “Buy Now” button is clearly visible, making it easy for interested visitors to complete the purchase.

2 elements that could be improved

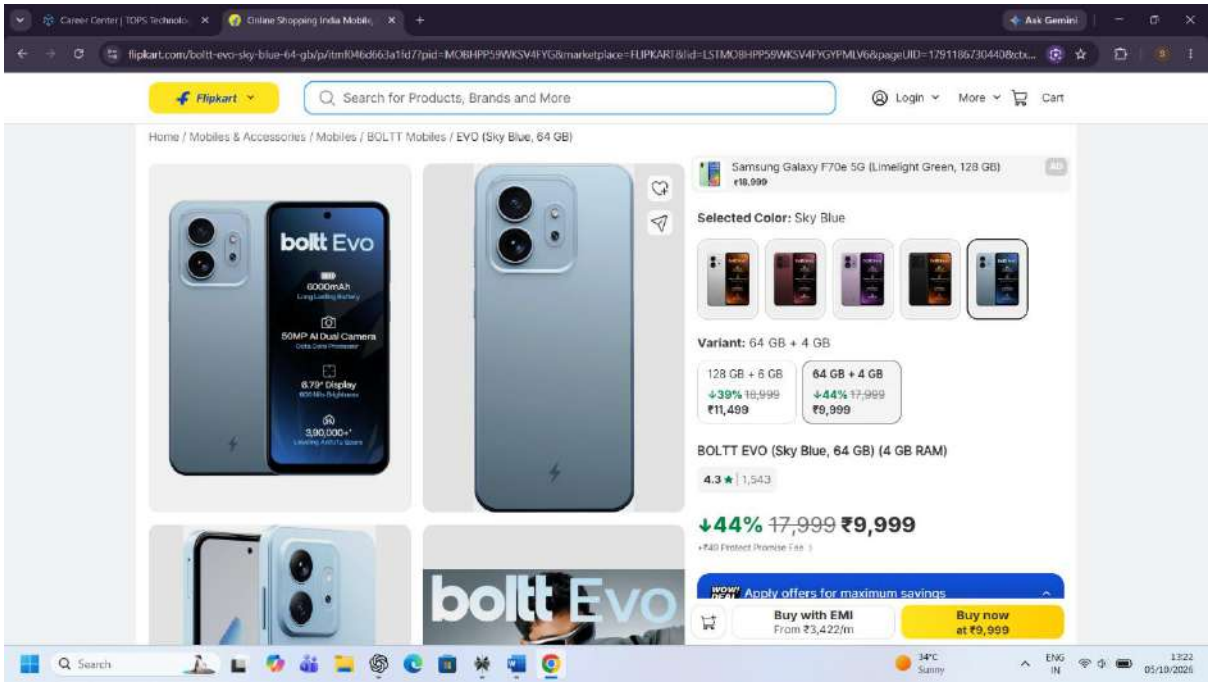

1. Key product specifications should be more prominent
    - Important features such as the 6000 mAh battery, 50 MP camera, display and processor could be presented more prominently near the main product information.

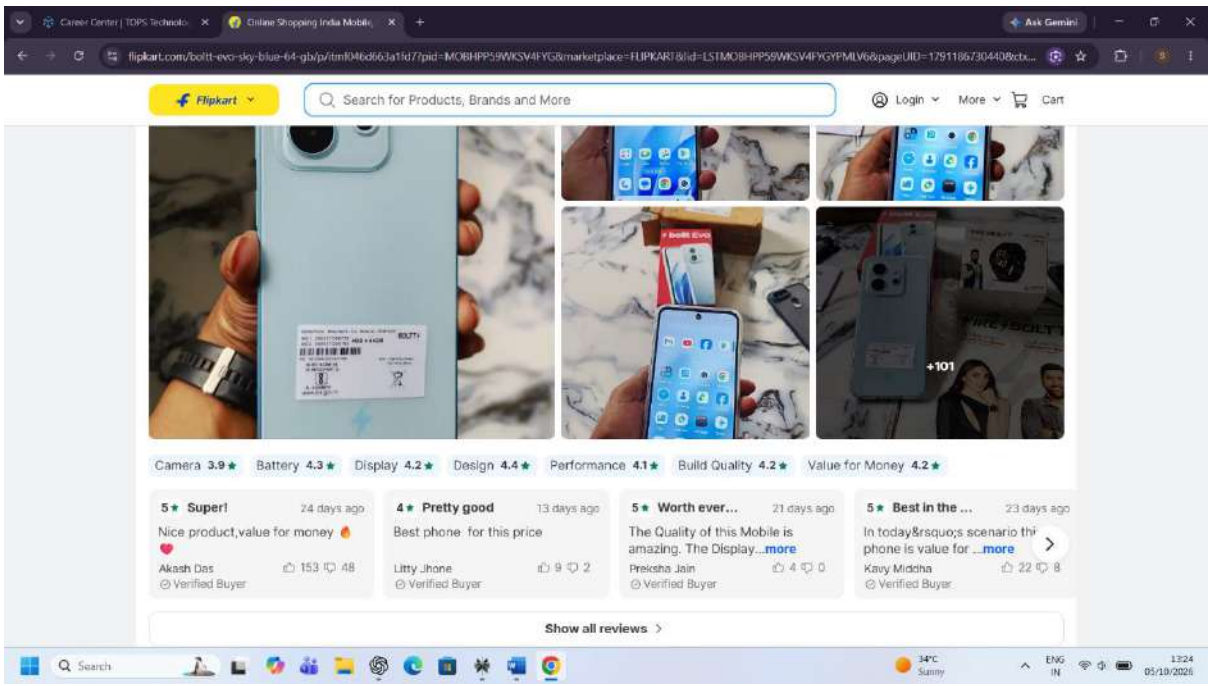

- This would help visitors understand the product's benefits without having to scroll through the page.

2. Review insights could be easier to understand
    - Although there are many reviews, shoppers have to explore the review section to understand what customers like or dislike.
    - A short summary such as “Best for: battery life and value for money” and “Common complaint: camera quality” would make the review information easier to use.

Conclusion

The page uses discount pricing, social proof, real customer photos and a prominent Buy Now CTA to encourage purchases. However, making the product's key benefits and review insights easier to understand could further improve conversion.

Task 4: Buyer persona: Spotify Premium (Indian Gen Z)

Name: “Aarav, the Playlist Native”

- Demographics: 18–24 years; college student or early-career (intern/junior role); urban/semi-urban India; Android user; limited but regular disposable income (₹500–₹2,000/month for entertainment).
- Interests: Bollywood, Punjabi/Hindi pop, hip-hop, EDM, regional music; follows creators on Instagram/YouTube; loves memes, reels, and trending audio.
- Behaviors: Listens while commuting, studying, working out, and scrolling; 25+ hours/week on music apps; creates and shares playlists; uses Spotify Wrapped socially.
- Pain points (Free tier): Too many ads, limited skips, no offline mode, generic recommendations, occasional app lag; feels Premium is pricey without student discount clarity.
- Motivations: Ad-free focus sessions, offline downloads for travel/low-network areas, better audio quality, mood-based playlists, lyrics, and social sharing.
- Preferred social platforms: Instagram (Reels/Stories), YouTube, WhatsApp, Discord/Telegram groups for music sharing.

Messaging angles that work: “Ad-free focus,” “Download for metro/college Wi-Fi blackouts,” “Student plan = less than a chai per day.”

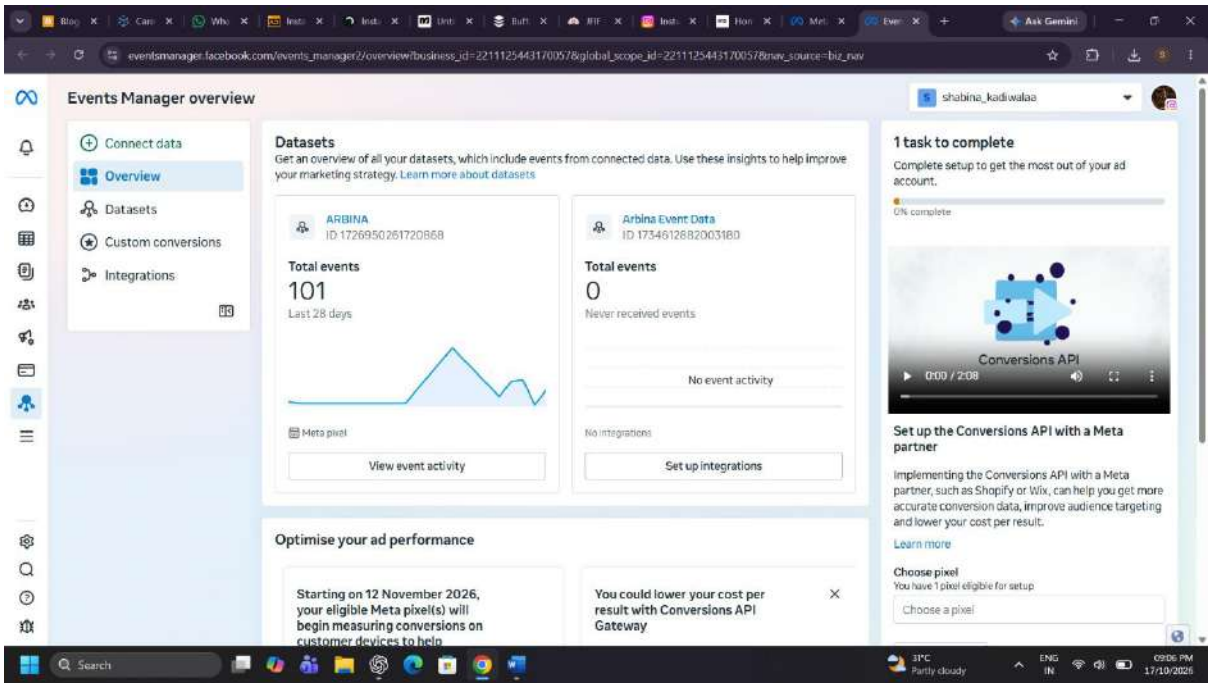

Task 5: IPL cricket app: short Messenger ad + rationale

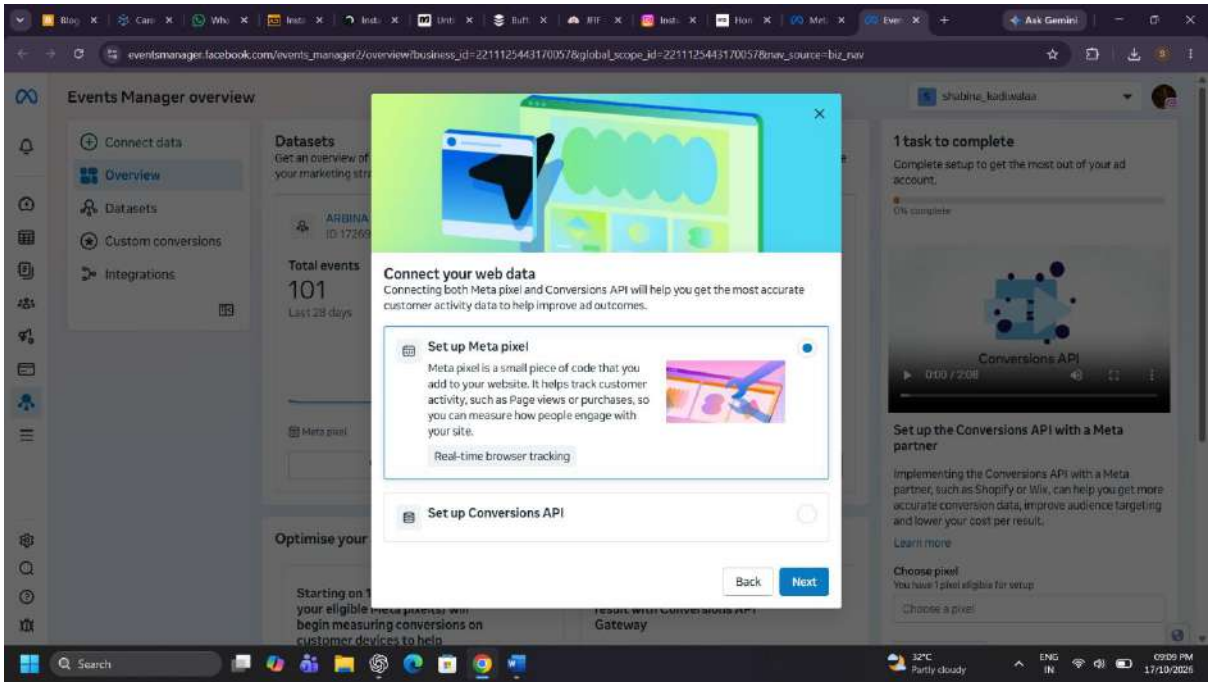

Assumption: Trending IPL app = an official IPL fantasy/live-score app (e.g., JioCinema IPL hub or a fantasy league app).

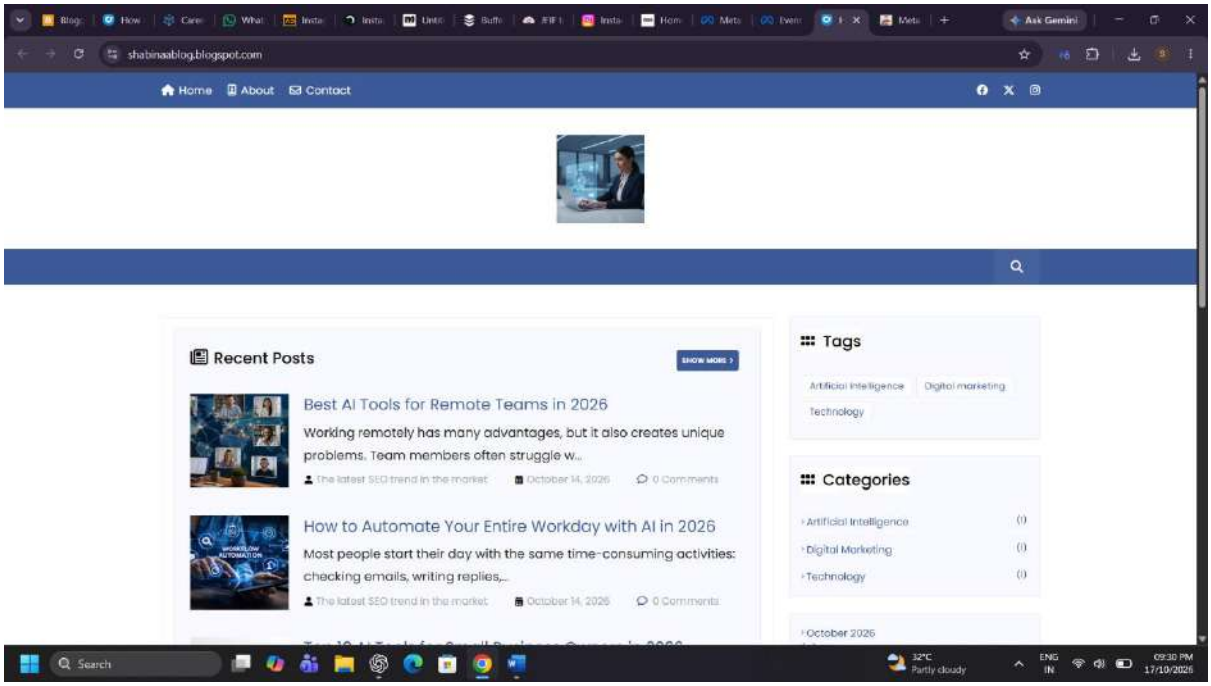

Messenger ad copy (≤30 words):
"Match starting in 15! Your squad's 2 players are on strike. Make 1 quick change now and climb the leaderboard before the first over."

Why this angle (2 lines):
It targets the most active persona—fantasy players who check lineups right before toss—using time pressure and a specific, actionable nudge. This matches high-intent, pre-match behavior that drives immediate engagement.

Task 3:

Meta Conversions API Purchase Event

For this task, I used Postman to send a server-side Purchase event to Meta's Conversions API. The Conversions API allows website conversion events to be sent from a server-side client such as Postman instead of relying only on the browser Pixel.

CAPI Endpoint

The basic endpoint is:

POST https://graph.facebook.com/API_VERSION/PIXEL_ID/events

For my demo setup, the endpoint was:

https://graph.facebook.com/v24.0/1417524533258284/events

The API version should be replaced with the current version supported by Meta.

Postman Configuration

Method:

POST

URL:

https://graph.facebook.com/v24.0/1417524533258284/events

Query parameter:

access_token = YOUR_ACCESS_TOKEN

Header:

Content-Type: application/json

The access token was generated from:

Meta Events Manager → Data Sources → selected Pixel/Dataset → Settings → Conversions API → Set up manually → Generate access token

The access token should never be exposed in Blogger HTML, frontend JavaScript, screenshots, or public files.

Request Body

In Postman, I selected:

Body → raw → JSON

Then I used the following payload:

  "data": [
      "event_name": "Purchase",

      "event_time": 1792270200,
      "action_source": "website",
      "event_source_url": "https://shabinaablog.blogspot.com/p/demo-product-add-to-cart.html",
      "user_data": {
        "client_user_agent": "Mozilla/5.0"
      "custom_data": {
        "currency": "INR",
        "value": 999.00,
        "content_type": "product",
        "content_ids": ["SKU123"],
        "num_items": 1
      "event_id": "demo-purchase-001"
  ],
  "test_event_code": "TEST12345"

Test Events

I opened:

Meta Events Manager → Data Sources → selected Pixel/Dataset → Test Events

I copied the generated Test Event Code and added it to the request body. I then sent the request from Postman.

A successful response should contain:

  "events_received": 1

After sending the request, I refreshed the Test Events section in Meta Events Manager and checked for a server-side event with the following details:

Event: Purchase

Value: INR 999.00

Source: Server

Product ID: SKU123

Expected Flow

Postman

Meta Conversions API

Meta Events Manager

Purchase event

Value: INR 999.00

Currency: INR

Result

The purpose of this implementation was to demonstrate a server-side Purchase event using Meta's Conversions API. The event was configured with sample order data, including a purchase value of INR 999.00 and currency INR. The Test Event Code was used to validate the event in Meta Events Manager.

Task 4:

facebook-events-last-7-days.csv

Task 5:

I would test two Zomato-style landing-page banners while keeping every other element—headline, offer, button, layout, and audience—the same. A/B testing should change only one element and randomly divide visitors between the control and variation to avoid bias.

Variants

- Version A — Control: Banner showing a restaurant meal, with the message “Order Your Favourite Food.”
- Version B — Variation: Banner showing a discount offer, with the message “Get 50% Off Your First Order.”

Visitors would be randomly assigned to Version A or B in a 50:50 split, and each visitor should continue seeing the same version during the test.

Facebook Pixel Events

I would use the same Meta Pixel on both versions and send a custom parameter identifying the banner variant.

When the page loads:

fbq('track', 'PageView', { banner_variant: 'A'
});

For Version B:

fbq('track', 'PageView', {
  banner_variant: 'B'
});

When a visitor clicks the main Order Now button, I would track:

javascript

fbq('track', 'Lead', {
  banner_variant: 'A'

});

For Version B, use:

fbq('track', 'Lead', {

banner_variant: 'B'

});

If the landing page sends users to a food-ordering checkout, I would track the funnel using:

- PageView — visitor views the landing page.
- ViewContent — visitor views the offer or restaurant content.
- AddToCart — visitor adds a meal or offer.
- Purchase — visitor completes an order.

The main conversion should be Purchase if an order can be completed. If this is only a demo page without payment, use the Order Now click or Lead event as the primary conversion.

Measurement

The primary metric would be conversion rate:

Conversion Rate=Number of visitorsNumber of conversions×100

Number of Visitors

For example:

Variant	Visitors	Purchases	Conversion rate
A	1,000	50	5.0%
B	1,000	65	6.5%

I would also measure:

- Banner click-through rate.
- AddToCart rate.
- Purchase completion rate.
- Total purchase value.
- Cost per conversion.
- Bounce rate.

The Purchase conversion rate would be the primary metric, while bounce rate and purchase value would be secondary or guardrail metrics.

Attribution Model

I would use a 7-day click-through and 1-day view-through attribution model, if available in Meta's reporting settings. This means Meta would give conversion credit when a person clicks the advertisement and completes a conversion within seven days. It would also give limited credit when the person only views the advertisement and converts within one day.

For comparing the two banner images, I would mainly focus on click-through conversions because the visitor has actively interacted with the advertisement or landing page. The same attribution window must be applied to both versions so that the results remain fair and comparable.

Testing Procedure

1. Create two landing-page versions with different banner images.
2. Keep all other page elements identical.
3. Randomly divide visitors equally between Version A and Version B.
4. Add the same Facebook Pixel to both versions.
5. Pass banner_variant: "A" or banner_variant: "B" with each relevant event.
6. Track PageView, AddToCart, Lead, and Purchase events.
7. Run the test during the same period for both versions.
8. Collect enough visitors and conversions before judging the result.
9. Compare the conversion rates of both versions.
10. Select the winning banner only if its improvement is reliable and it does not negatively affect bounce rate, cart activity, or order value.

Final Recommendation

The banner with the higher statistically reliable Purchase conversion rate would be considered the winner. For example, if Version A produces a 5.0% conversion rate and Version B produces a 6.5% conversion rate with a similar audience and test period, Version B would be preferred, provided the difference is meaningful and other performance metrics remain healthy.

Task 1: Meta Ad Library: Zomato

#	Main message	Format	Likely CTA
1	"Cravings don't wait"—order food quickly from nearby restaurants.	Short vertical video showing food preparation, delivery rider, and app ordering.	Order Now
2	"Late-night hunger? We've got you"—promotes 24/7 food delivery availability.	Image/static creative with bold food photography and offer text.	Order Food
3	"More restaurants, more choices"—highlights variety, offers, or a new restaurant partnership.	Carousel with multiple food/offer cards.	Learn More or Order Now

Observation: Zomato-style ads usually use humour, bold food visuals, short hooks, and a direct ordering CTA rather than long explanations.

Task 2: Competitor analysis: Myntra

Using Similarweb's public analysis for Myntra, its social traffic is led by YouTube, followed by Facebook; LinkedIn also appears among the top desktop social sources. Similarweb also reports that Myntra's paid search accounts for about half of its keyword traffic, indicating a strong performance-marketing focus.

- Top two social platforms for paid/social activity: YouTube and Facebook (with Instagram commonly used through Meta placement alongside Facebook).
- Likely campaign objective: Conversions/sales—driving users from ads to product pages during sales, new launches, and retargeting campaigns. Myntra's strategy includes PPC, display ads, retargeting, and product-listing ad extensions.
- Supporting evidence: Similarweb shows paid search at 50.36% of tracked keyword traffic, consistent with conversion- and traffic-focused advertising.

Task 3: Facebook Campaign Objectives – Spotify India

Campaign objective	What it optimises for	Spotify India example
Awareness	Reach and brand recall	Promote a new Spotify India campaign, such as "Music for every mood," to a broad audience of 18–34-year-olds across metros.

Campaign objective	What it optimises for	Spotify India example
Traffic	Clicks to a website or app destination	Send users to a landing page for a curated Bollywood playlist or Spotify Premium free-trial page.
Engagement	Likes, comments, shares, video views, and post interactions	Run a Reel asking, “Which song defines your Monday mood?” and encourage users to comment their answer.
Conversions	Purchases, sign-ups, installs, or other valuable actions	Promote Spotify Premium with a limited-time offer and optimise for free-trial sign-ups or app installs.

Task 4: IPL Fan Club Video Advertisement

Video length: 15–30 seconds

Concept: Fictional IPL fan club

gemini_generated_video_7dd9f9ce.mp4

caption

🏏🔥 IPL Fever Starts Here!

Love cricket? Follow every match, celebrate every six, share your predictions, and connect with fans who live for the game!

Join our ultimate IPL Fan Club and never miss a moment of the action. 🏆

👉 Join Now & Be Part of the Fan Community!

Task 5 : AI Video Ad – Digital Wallet Feature

Fictional app: PayFast Wallet

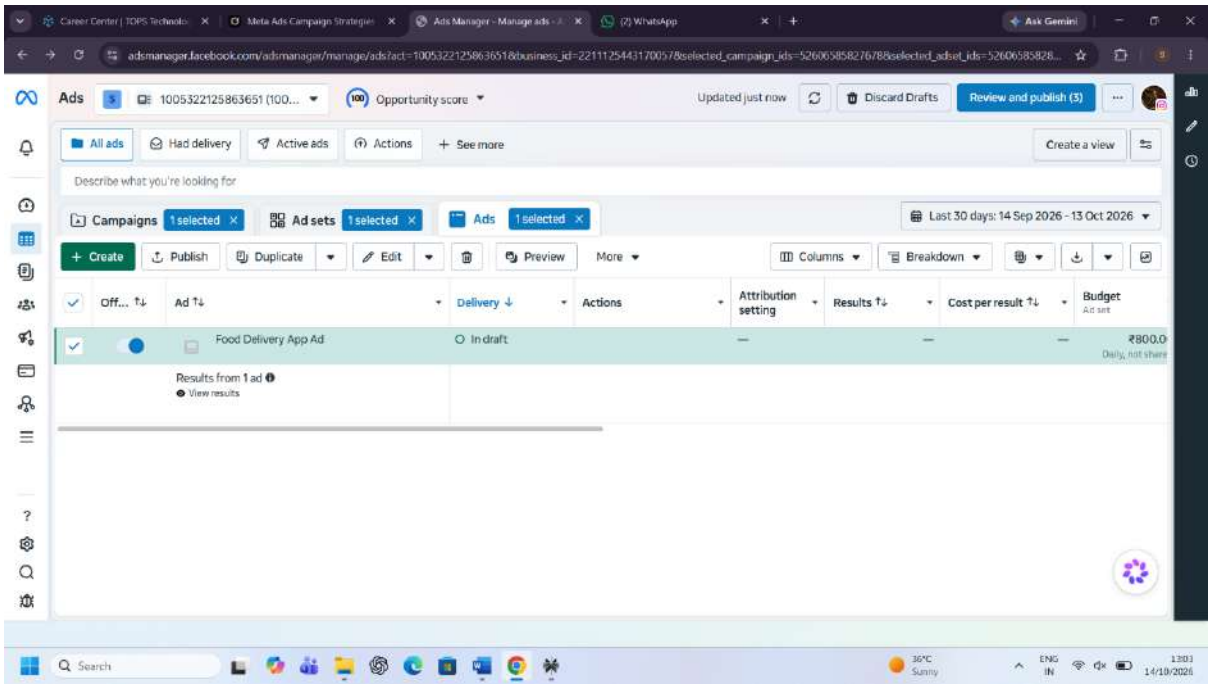

New feature: Instant Bill Split

gemini_generated_video_3020e64d.mp4

Visualization

I would create this as a vertical 9:16 video with a realistic restaurant scene, close-up smartphone shots, animated payment notifications and quick transitions. The final frame would display the app logo, “Instant Bill Split” and a clear “Try It Now” CTA.

Task 1:

Task 2: Retargeting Strategy for an E-commerce Fashion Store

For an e-commerce fashion store, I would create a retargeting campaign for users who added items to their cart but did not complete the purchase. These users have already shown strong purchase intent, so the goal is to remind them about the product, remove doubts, and encourage them to return and complete the order.

1. Retargeting Audience

I would create a Custom Audience in Meta Ads Manager using website/app events:

- Include: Users who triggered the AddToCart event in the last 7–14 days.
- Exclude: Users who completed the Purchase event in the last 30 days.

This ensures that ads are shown only to potential buyers who left items in their cart and not to people who have already purchased.

2. Campaign Setup

Element	Setting
Campaign objective	Sales / Conversions
Audience	AddToCart but no Purchase
Time window	Last 7–14 days
Ad format	Dynamic Product Ads / Advantage+ Catalog Ads
Placement	Instagram Feed, Stories, Reels, Facebook Feed
Frequency	2–3 impressions per day
Duration	14 days

Dynamic Product Ads are useful because they can automatically show the exact product that the user added to the cart, along with its image, price, and product name.

3. Ad Creatives and Offers

I would use the following three creatives for this audience:

Creative	Ad Message	Offer / CTA
Product Reminder Ad	“Still thinking about it? Your favourite outfit is waiting in your cart.”	Show the exact abandoned product with a “Complete Purchase” button.
Social Proof Ad	“Loved by 2,000+ happy customers. Find your perfect fit today.”	Show customer ratings, reviews, easy returns, and secure payment options.
Urgency/Discount Ad	“Your cart is reserved for the next 24 hours. Don’t miss out!”	Offer 10% off or free shipping above ₹999, with a “Shop Now” CTA.

4. Why This Strategy Works

- The user has already selected a product, so they are closer to purchasing than a new visitor.
- Showing the exact product reminds them of what they liked.
- Reviews and return policies reduce doubts related to size, quality, and delivery.
- A limited-time discount creates urgency and encourages immediate action.
- Excluding recent purchasers avoids wasting ad budget on people who have already converted.

Sample Ad Copy

Primary Text:

“Still thinking about it? Your favourite outfit is waiting in your cart. Complete your order now and enjoy 10% off for the next 24 hours.”

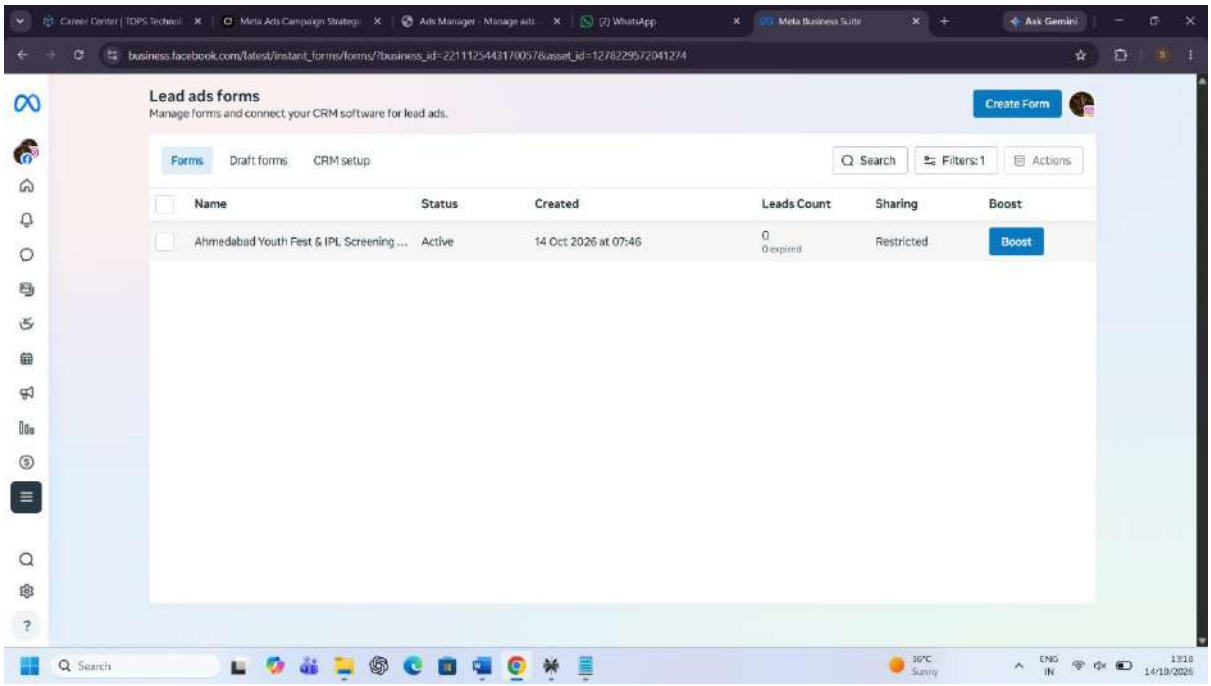

Headline:

“Complete Your Purchase Today”

CTA Button:

“Shop Now”

Task 3: Ad Creative for the Lead Campaign

After a user submits the Instant Form, I would automate the following actions:

1. Instant WhatsApp/SMS confirmation

   “Hi [Name], your registration for Ahmedabad Youth Fest & IPL Screening Night is confirmed. Show this message at the entry gate.”

2. Digital pass within 24 hours

   Send an email or WhatsApp message with the event date, venue map, entry timing, and QR code/digital pass.

3. Reminder one day before the event

   “Don’t forget! Your IPL Screening Night pass is ready. Entry starts at [time]. See you tomorrow!”

4. Post-event follow-up

   Send a feedback form and a discount code or early-bird offer for the next event.

5. Why This Funnel Works

- The form collects only useful information needed for registration and event management.
- Mobile number and email help with instant confirmation and reminders.
- College name and attendee type help understand the audience.
- Time slot and friends count help manage seating, food, and crowd capacity.
- Automated follow-up increases attendance and reduces no-shows.

Task 4: Meta Ads reporting template (Zomato-style campaign)

https://docs.google.com/spreadsheets/d/137hwkDq_LrvwTbdAnzVhhj1q0-aH8l7qfOjfzAqhMBc/edit?usp=sharing

Trends noticed:

- Strong weekend lift (Fri–Sat) in volume and efficiency – typical for food delivery.
- Cost per Lead improved from ~₹56 early week to ~₹40 on peak days.
- Conversion rate (leads/clicks) stayed healthy in the 7.7–9.3% range and peaked mid-to-late week.
- Thursday–Saturday drove the majority of leads at the best CPL – good candidates for budget scaling.

Task 5: AI Retargeting Ad Copy

Prompt 1

“Write 3 short Instagram retargeting ad copies for a mobile app that helps users discover the best street food in their city. The audience previously opened the app but did not place an order. Use a friendly Indian tone, include one strong hook, mention local street food, and end with a clear CTA.”

AI output:

1. “Your city’s best street food is closer than you think. From spicy chaat to late-night rolls—find it all on [App Name]. Open the app and order now.”
2. “Still craving? We found the top-rated street food spots near you. Explore, compare, and order in minutes.”
3. “Missed your foodie moment? Your favourite street food is waiting. Reopen [App Name] and get ₹50 off your first order.”

Prompt 2

“Create 3 retargeting ad copies for users who browsed street-food listings in a food-discovery app but did not order. Focus on urgency, local discovery, and a limited-time discount. Keep each under 30 words.”

AI output:

1. “That vada pav you viewed? It’s still trending near you. Order before the offer ends.”

2. “Your next food adventure is one tap away. Discover hidden street-food gems and save 20% today.”
3. “Hungry again? The street food you browsed is just minutes away. Reopen the app and claim your discount.”

Prompt 3

“Write 3 playful, Gen Z-style retargeting ads for a street-food discovery app. Target users aged 18–25 who added a restaurant to favourites but did not order. Include emojis and a strong CTA.”

AI output:

1. “You favourited it. Now taste it. 🍔 Your street-food crush is waiting—order now!”
2. “POV: You found the perfect pani puri spot but didn’t order. 😭 Fix that today.”
3. “Late-night cravings? We know the spot. 🔥 Reopen the app and satisfy the craving.”

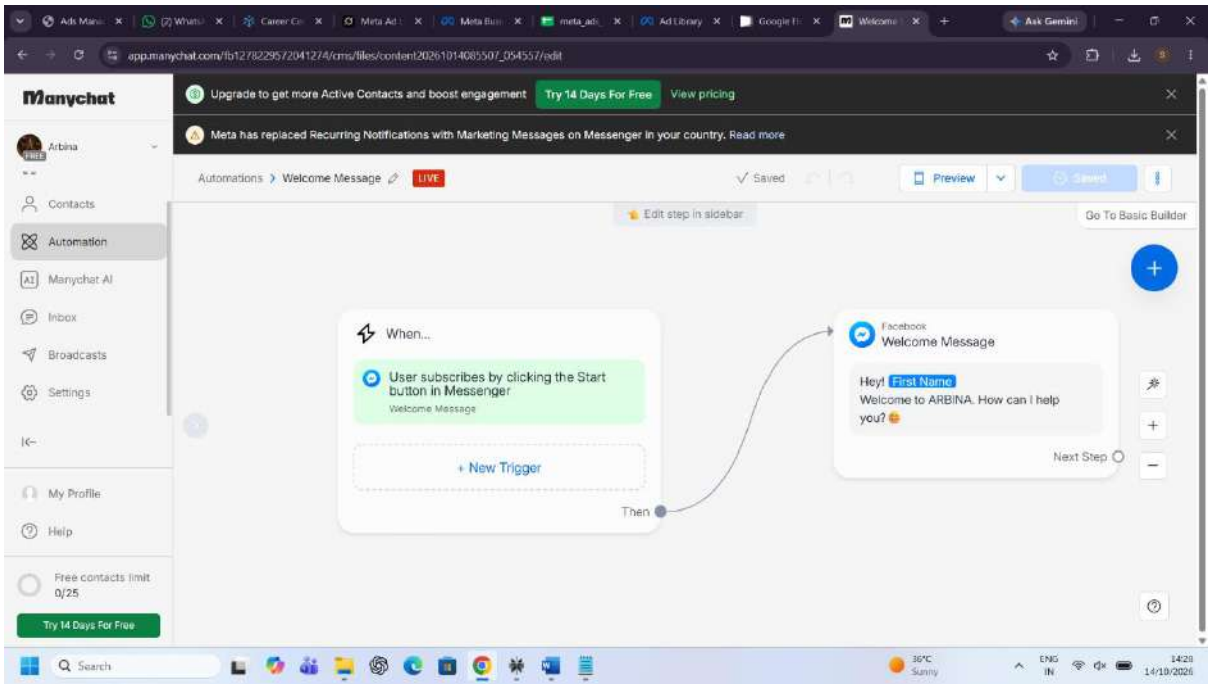

Favourite copy

Favourite:

“POV: You found the perfect pani puri spot but didn’t order. 😭 Fix that today.”

Why: It is short, relatable, and uses a familiar Gen Z “POV” format. It directly acknowledges the user’s previous app activity without sounding overly salesy, making it suitable for Instagram Reels and Stories retargeting. It also creates a light emotional trigger—craving and FOMO—while leaving room for a “Order Now” button.

Task 1:

Task 2: Create a Messenger Menu Automation for a Food Delivery Page

Create a Messenger automation for Abu-Al-Baik, a food-delivery style Facebook page. When a user types the keyword “menu”, the automation should display different food categories using Quick Replies and show a sample dish based on the selected category.

Automation Setup

Facebook Page: Abu-Al-Baik

Platform: Facebook Messenger

Trigger: User sends a message containing the keyword “menu”

Trigger Keyword

Keyword: menu

Welcome Menu Message

When the user sends “menu”, the bot responds:

🍽 Welcome to Food Bucket!

What would you like to order today?

Please select a category below:

Quick Replies

1. Chicken Zinger Pizza
2. Chicken Burger
3. Fries

Automated Responses

If the user selects Chicken Zinger Pizza:

Pizza

Chicken Zinger Pizza – ₹299

Crunchy, Yummy, Juicy

If the user selects Chicken Burger:

Chicken Burger

Chicken Burger – ₹210

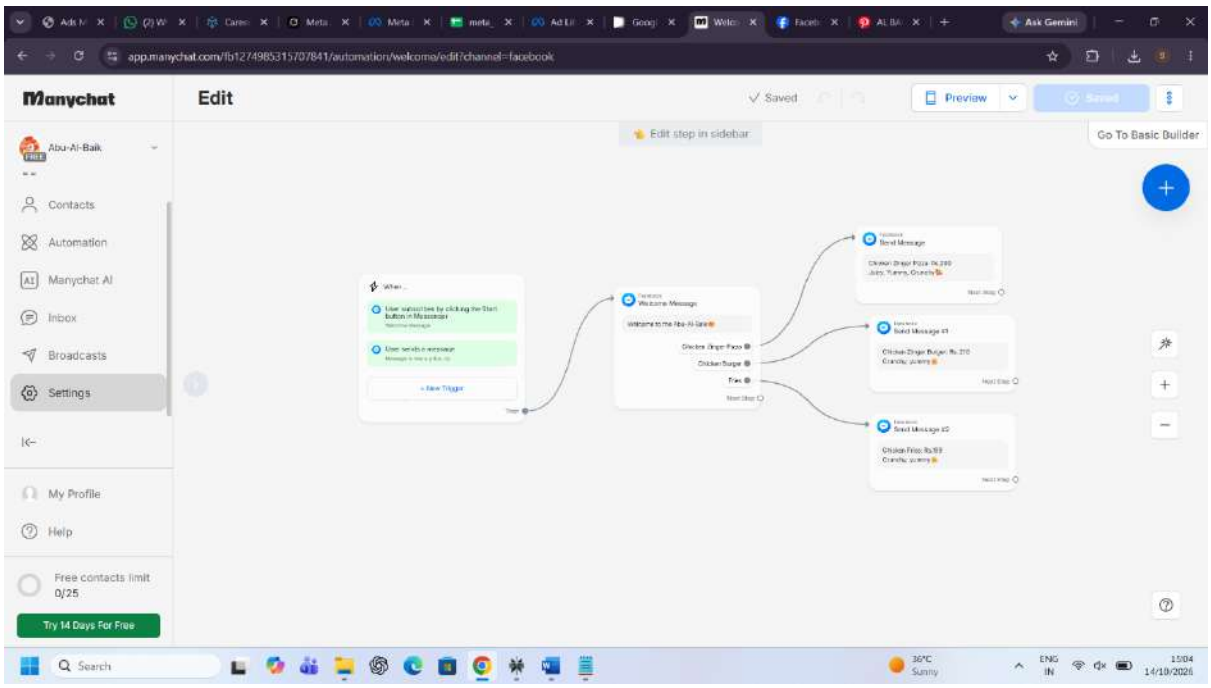

Yummy, Crunchy

If the user selects Fries:

Fries

Fries – ₹199

Crunchy, Yummy

Task3: Facebook Ads campaign draft

Campaign objective: Sales or Conversions

Campaign name: Ecom_Launch_Conversions_Oct2026

Placement: Advantage+ placements, with creative optimized for mobile Feed, Reels, and Stories

Conversion event: Purchase; use Add to Cart and Initiate Checkout as supporting events

Budget: Start with a test budget you can sustain for 7–14 days, then scale only after stable results.

Ad set structure

Ad set	Audience	Creative angle
A — Interest	Broad age/location + product-related interests	Problem-solution video
B — Retargeting	Website visitors, IG engagers, cart abandoners	Offer/testimonial creative
C — Broad	No detailed targeting, broad age/location	UGC-style creative

ABO vs CBO

Factor	ABO — Ad Set Budget Optimization	CBO — Campaign Budget Optimization
Budget level	Set separately for each ad set	One budget for the whole campaign
Spend control	You decide how much each audience receives	Meta shifts spend toward better-performing ad sets

Factor	ABO — Ad Set Budget Optimization	CBO — Campaign Budget Optimization
Best use	Testing audiences/creatives with controlled spend	Scaling after you know which audiences work
Main risk	Budget may remain on a weaker ad set	One strong ad set can absorb most of the budget
Learning	Easier to compare audiences fairly	Faster reallocation, but less equal testing

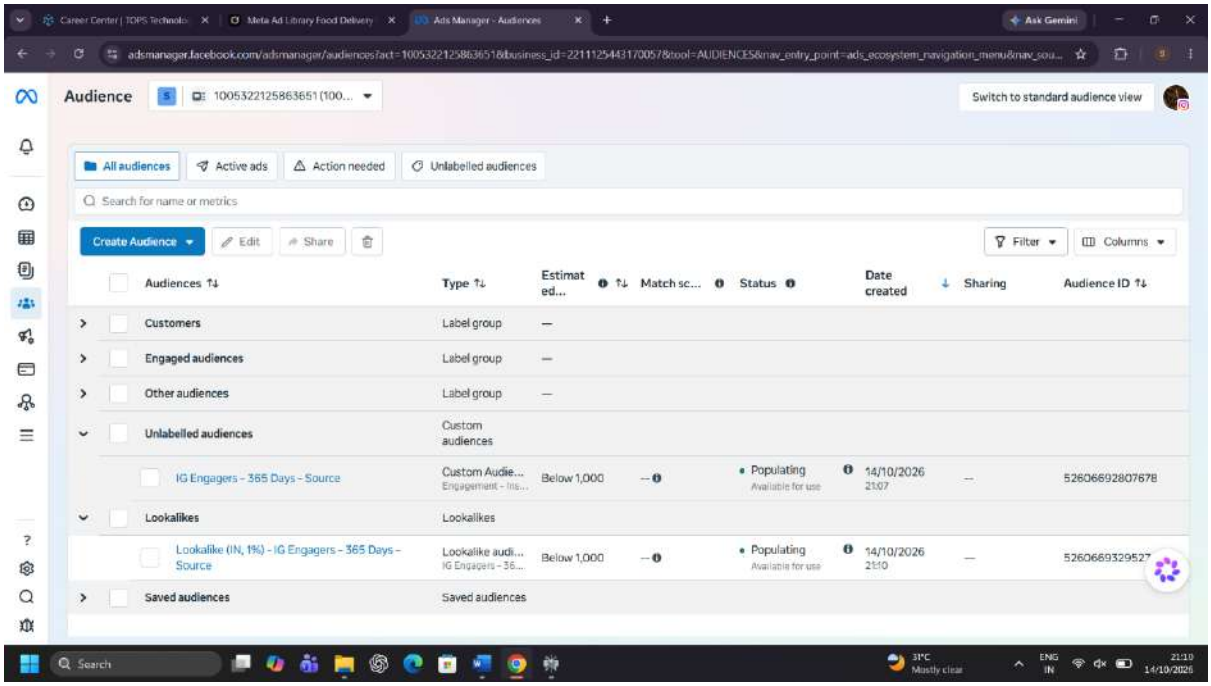

Meta describes campaign-level budgeting as continuously distributing spend in real time to ad sets with the best opportunities, while ad-set budgets give advertisers more direct control over delivery.

Recommendation for a new e-commerce launch: Start with ABO for the first testing phase because you need comparable data on each audience and creative angle. Once one or two ad sets clearly outperform the others, move the winning audiences/creatives into a CBO campaign for scaling. This balances-controlled testing with efficient budget allocation.

Task 4: Creating a 1% Lookalike Audience in Meta Ads Manager

What is a Lookalike Audience?

A Lookalike Audience (LLA) helps advertisers find new people similar to an existing source audience. A 1% Lookalike represents the closest-matching segment in the selected location. Increasing the percentage creates a larger, broader audience.

Two scenarios for a music-event ticketing app like BookMyShow

1. Promoting a new concert

   A ticketing app could use a 1% LLA based on its Instagram music-content engagers to reach similar prospective attendees beyond its existing audience. It could then show those people ads for an upcoming concert.

2. Scaling a music-festival campaign

   A ticketing app could test the lookalike audience when expanding a festival campaign beyond its existing Instagram community. The ads could highlight the artist lineup, early-bird tickets, or group-booking offers, while targeting locations relevant to the event

Task 5:

1. Prompt Used in ChatGPT

Write a cold outreach message to pitch my Facebook Ads and Messenger automation services to a local café. The message should be friendly, professional, and personalized. Explain how targeted Facebook and Instagram ads can attract more local customers and how Messenger automation can answer customer questions, share menus, promote special offers, and help generate more bookings or orders. Keep the message short, engaging, and focused on the café's business growth. Include a call to action to schedule a quick discussion.

2. Message Generated by ChatGPT

Hi! 👏

I came across your café and wanted to reach out with an idea that could help you attract more customers.

I help local businesses grow using targeted Facebook and Instagram ads, combined with Messenger automation. These tools can help your café reach people nearby, promote special offers, answer customer questions automatically, and turn more conversations into visits and orders.

Would you be open to a quick chat about how this could work for your café? 😊

3. Edited and Personalized Message

Example business: A newly opened local café that wants to attract more customers.

Hey! 👏

I noticed your café is a great spot for people looking to grab coffee and hang out. Since you're building your local customer base, I had an idea that could help bring more people through your doors.

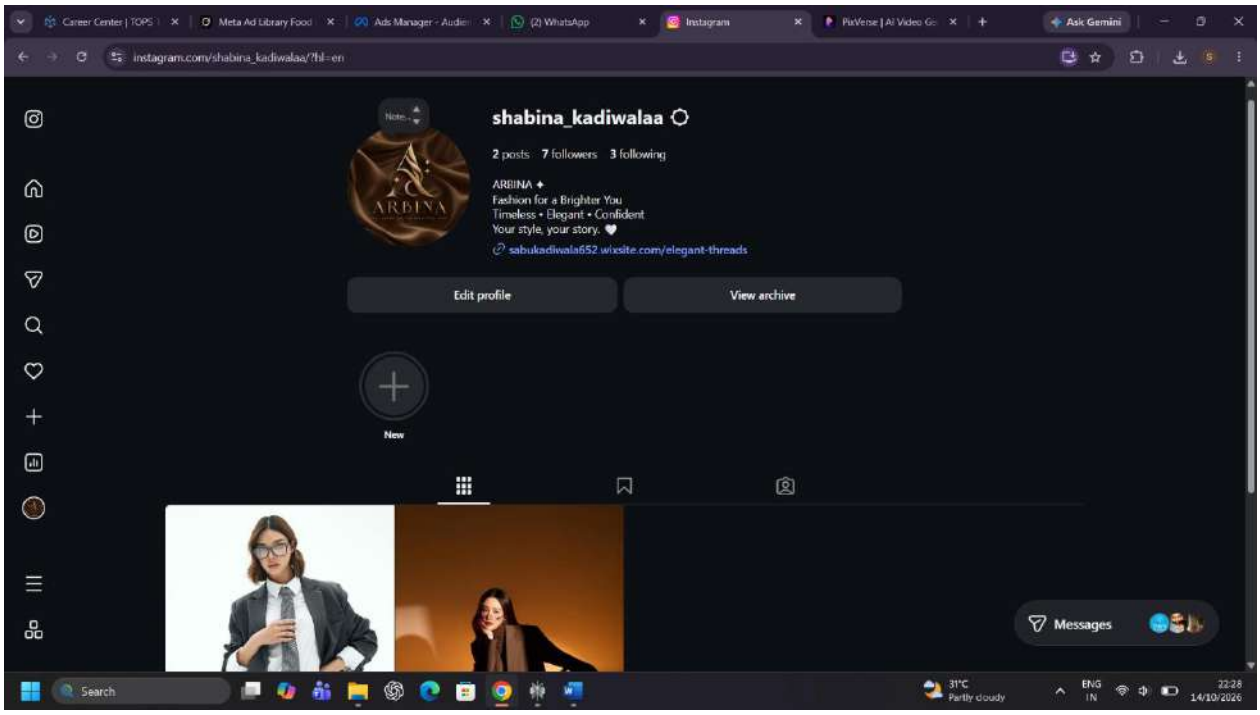

I help cafés use targeted Facebook and Instagram ads to reach people nearby, promote new menu items and special offers, and attract first-time visitors. With Messenger automation, you can also answer FAQs, share your menu, and respond to customer inquiries automatically—even when you're busy serving customers.

I'd love to share a couple of ideas tailored to your café. Would you be open to a quick 10-minute chat this week? ☕

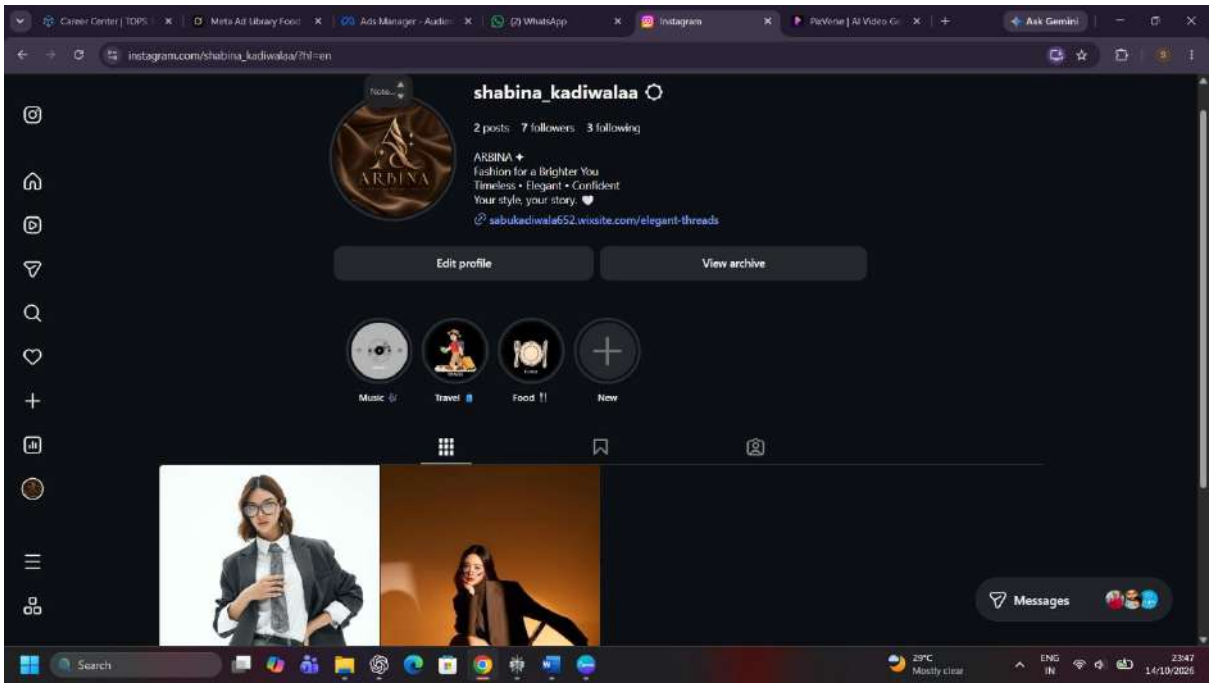

4. What I Changed and Why

- Made it more personal: Focused on a newly opened café building its local customer base.
- Highlighted targeted advertising: Explained how ads can reach people nearby who might visit the café.
- Explained Messenger automation: Included practical uses such as sharing menus and answering frequently asked questions.
- Focused on business results: Connected the services to attracting new customers and generating visits.
- Added a clear call to action: Suggested a quick 10-minute conversation rather than pushing for an immediate sale.

Task 5: 2026 algorithm summary

Instagram uses separate ranking systems for Feed, Explore, Reels, Stories, and Search. For Explore, it recommends posts from accounts users do not follow based on their interests, past engagement, and how quickly a post receives saves, shares, likes, and comments after publishing.

For Reels, Instagram prioritizes watch time, completion rate, rewatches, and DM shares. Shares per reach are particularly important for reaching non-followers, while saves indicate that viewers find the content useful. Hashtags still help categorization, but keyword-rich captions and clear on-screen text are more important for search visibility.

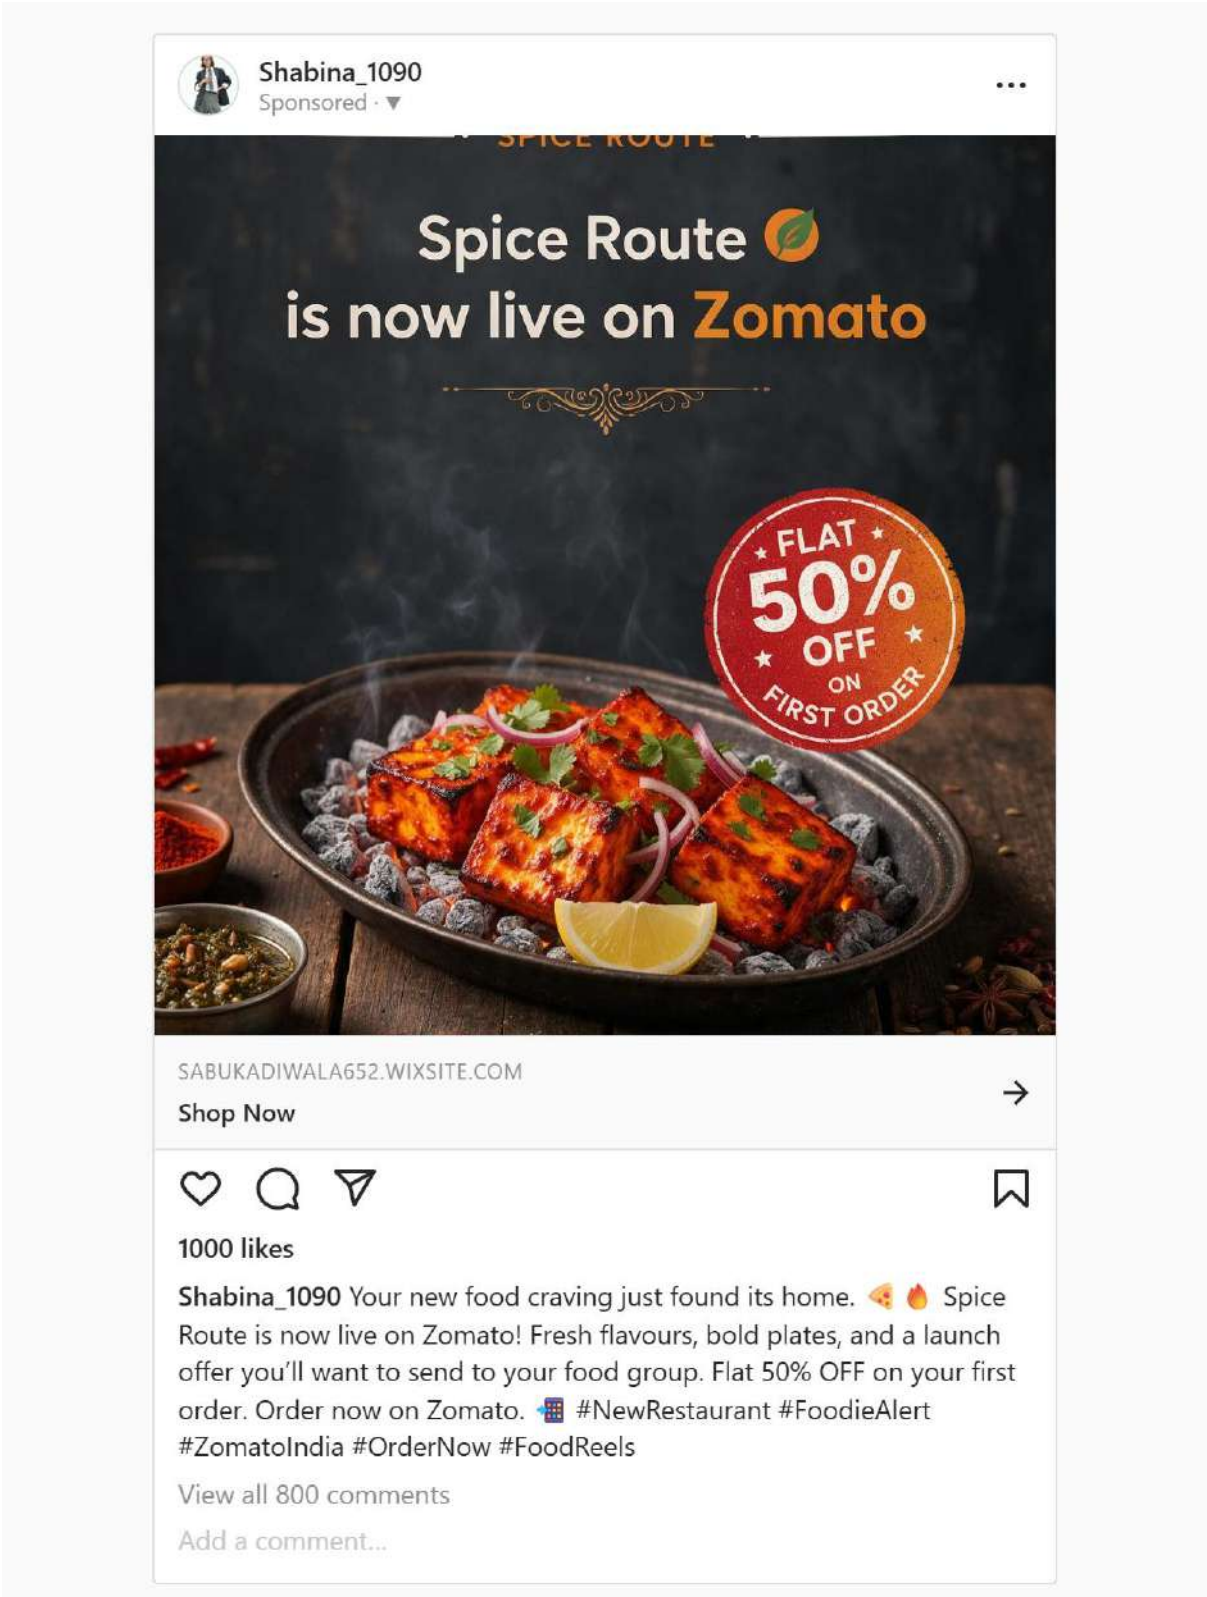

Three growth strategies

1. Use a strong hook in the first 3 seconds. For example: “Want to learn digital marketing for free?” This improves early retention and increases the chance viewers watch the full Reel.upgrow+1
2. Optimize posts for Instagram SEO. Add relevant keywords such as “SEO basics,” “social media marketing tips,” and “digital marketing career” to captions, on-screen text, and alt text. This helps Instagram understand and recommend the content.
3. Create educational, save-worthy content. Post checklists, beginner guides, tool comparisons, and short tutorials. End with “Save for later” or “Tag a friend,” because saves and shares signal lasting value more strongly than likes.

Task 1. Last 10 posts analysis

#	Post topic/format	Sends	Likes	Comments	Saves
1	Product Reel – clay bottle benefits	18	240	12	35
2	Behind-the-scenes Reel	9	160	8	14
3	Carousel – 5 eco-friendly kitchen swaps	27	310	21	62
4	Customer testimonial	6	120	15	9
5	Festival offer Story-style Reel	12	190	10	18
6	Meme/relatable Reel	22	420	34	25
7	Product tutorial	11	175	9	41
8	Founder story	8	205	26	20
9	Before/after clay cookware Reel	15	260	14	33
10	Trending audio Reel	19	380	18	22

Post 3 — Funny relatable college-life meme Reel had the highest sends: 34.

Two Reasons for Better Performance

1. High relatability: The meme reflected a common college experience, so viewers shared it directly with friends through DMs. Sends show that the content felt personally relevant and worth passing on.
2. Strong hook and quick entertainment: The Reel likely delivered the joke in the first few seconds, encouraging viewers to watch fully or rewatch. Instagram's algorithm values watch time, shares, comments, and saves as engagement signals.

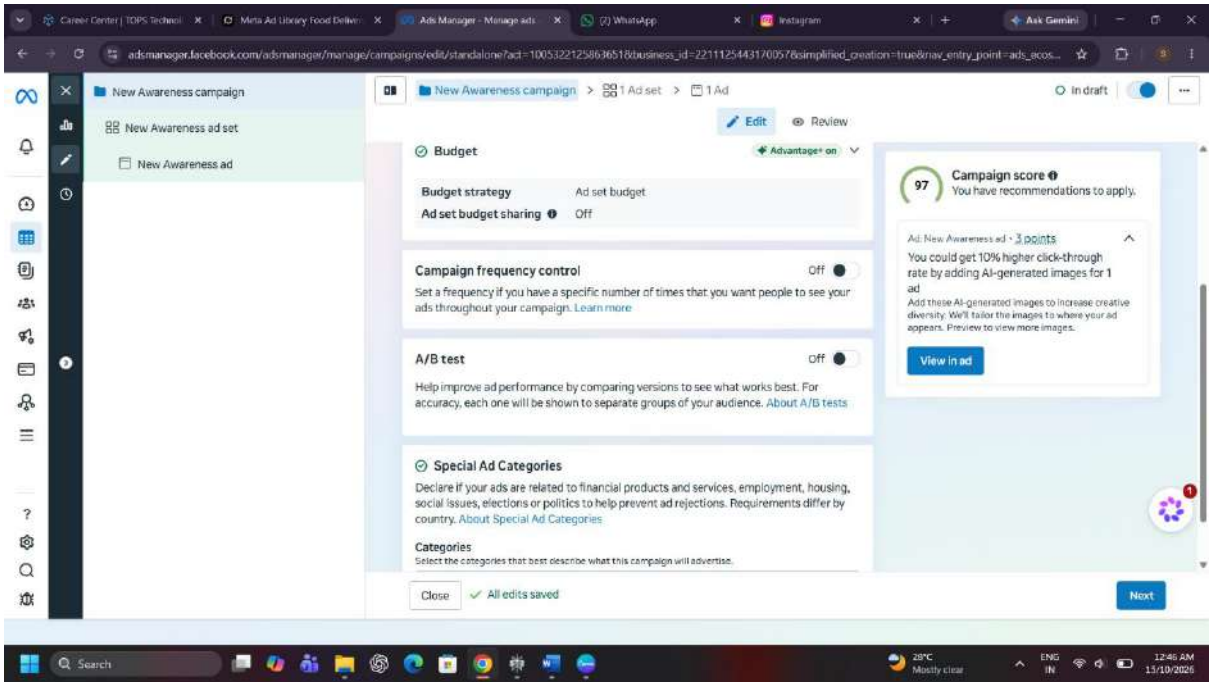

Extra Insight

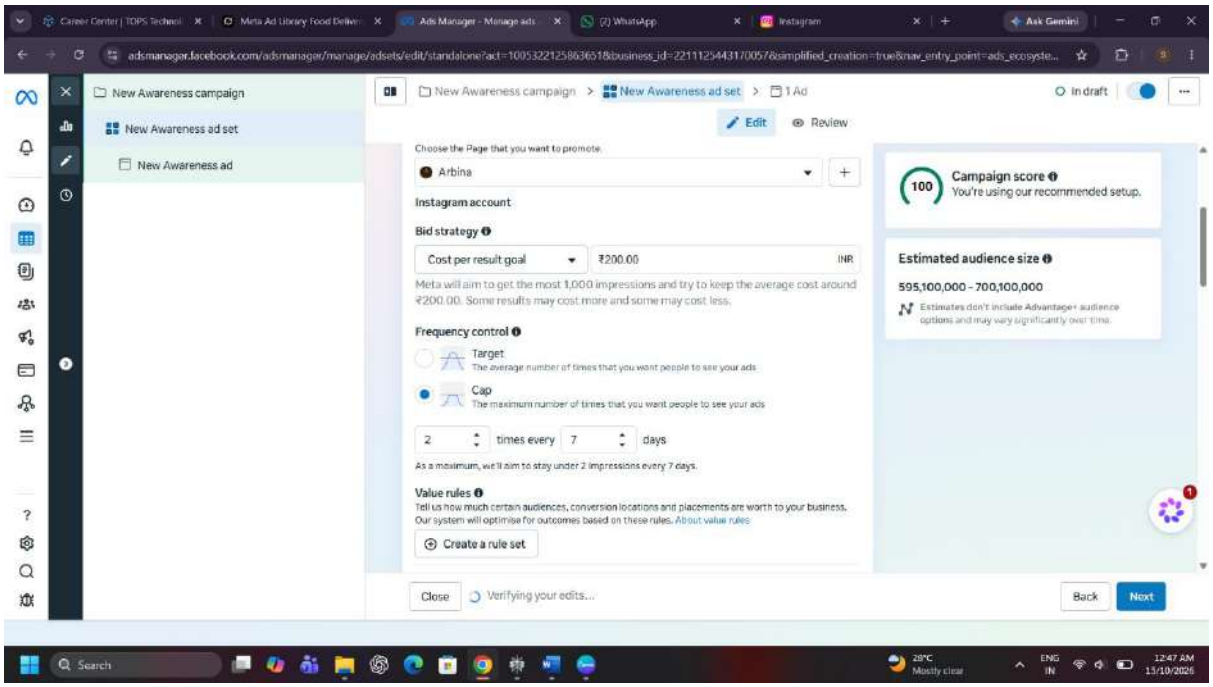

Post 7, "Books that changed my mindset," received the highest saves (72). This shows that humorous content can drive more sends, while useful or informative content can drive more saves.

Task 4: Brand Research — Duolingo Instagram Strategy

Brand: Duolingo

Duolingo uses humor, creative storytelling, and interactive content to engage its Instagram audience.

Three tactics used by the brand:

1. Trending humor and memes: Duolingo uses relatable jokes and trending topics to create shareable Reels. This can increase shares, watch time, and organic reach.

2. Character-based storytelling: Its green owl mascot, Duo, appears in entertaining situations and recurring stories. This builds brand recognition and encourages people to follow the account for more content.

3. Interactive content: Polls, quizzes, and audience participation encourage followers to engage with its content. These interactions can provide feedback and help the brand understand audience interests.

Conclusion: Duolingo combines entertainment with brand identity to create memorable content that encourages engagement and strengthens audience loyalty.

Task 5: Three Instagram Reel Ideas for an Indie Music Artist

Prompt used in ChatGPT:

Generate 3 creative Instagram Reel ideas for an indie music artist to maximize Sends and Saves. Include a hook, concept, on-screen text, and call to action for each idea. Focus on emotional storytelling, music discovery, and relatable experiences.

AI-generated response:

Idea 1: Send This Song to Someone Special

- Hook: “Some songs say what we cannot.”
- Concept: Use an emotional section of the artist's original song with cinematic sunset and nighttime visuals.
- On-screen text: “For the person you still think about.”
- CTA: “Send this to someone who needs to hear it.”

Idea 2: Behind the Song

- Hook: “I wrote this song at 2 AM after one difficult night.”
- Concept: Show the songwriting process, notebook lyrics, and studio recording.
- On-screen text: “From a simple thought to a song.”
- CTA: “Save this Reel for later.”

Idea 3: Wait for the Final Chorus

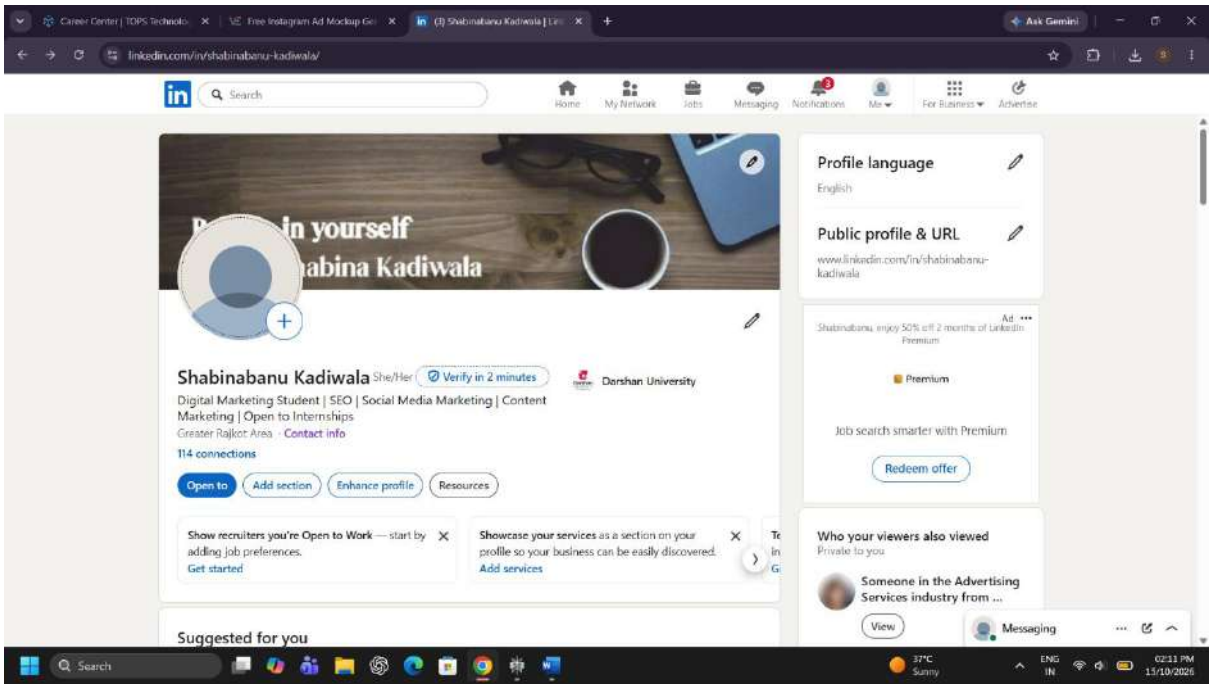

- Hook: “The last 10 seconds change everything.”
- Concept: Start with a quiet verse and build toward the strongest chorus.
- On-screen text: “Wait for the drop.”

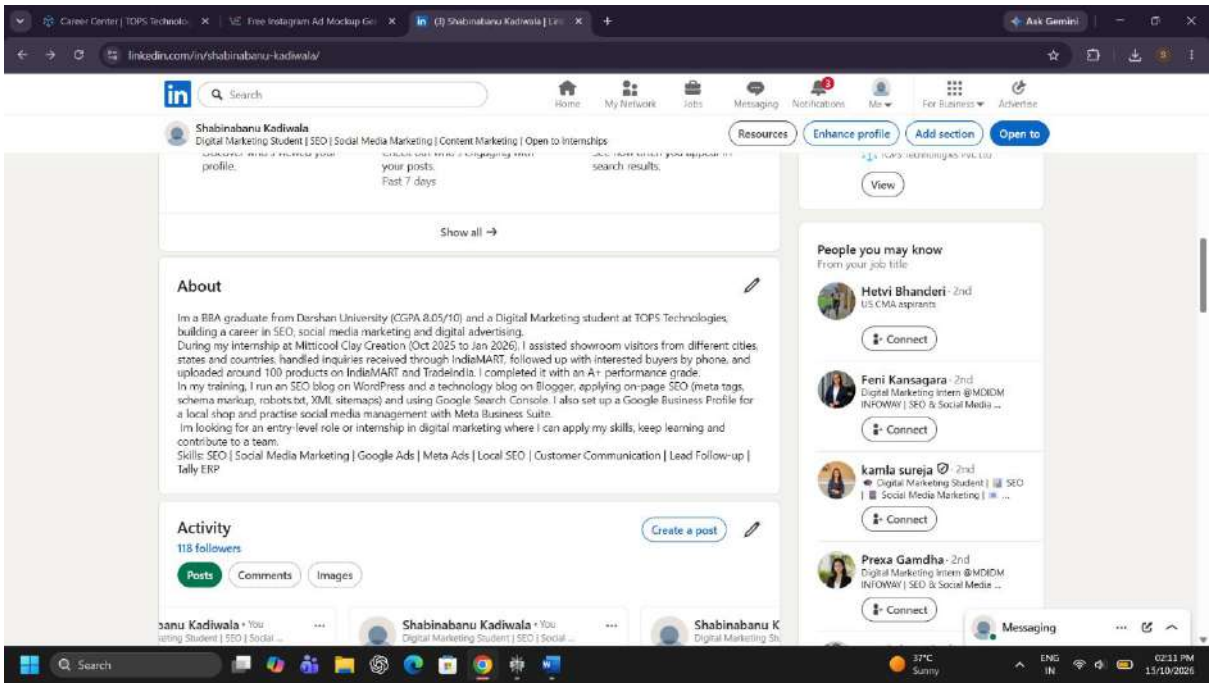

- CTA: “Save this track for your playlist.”

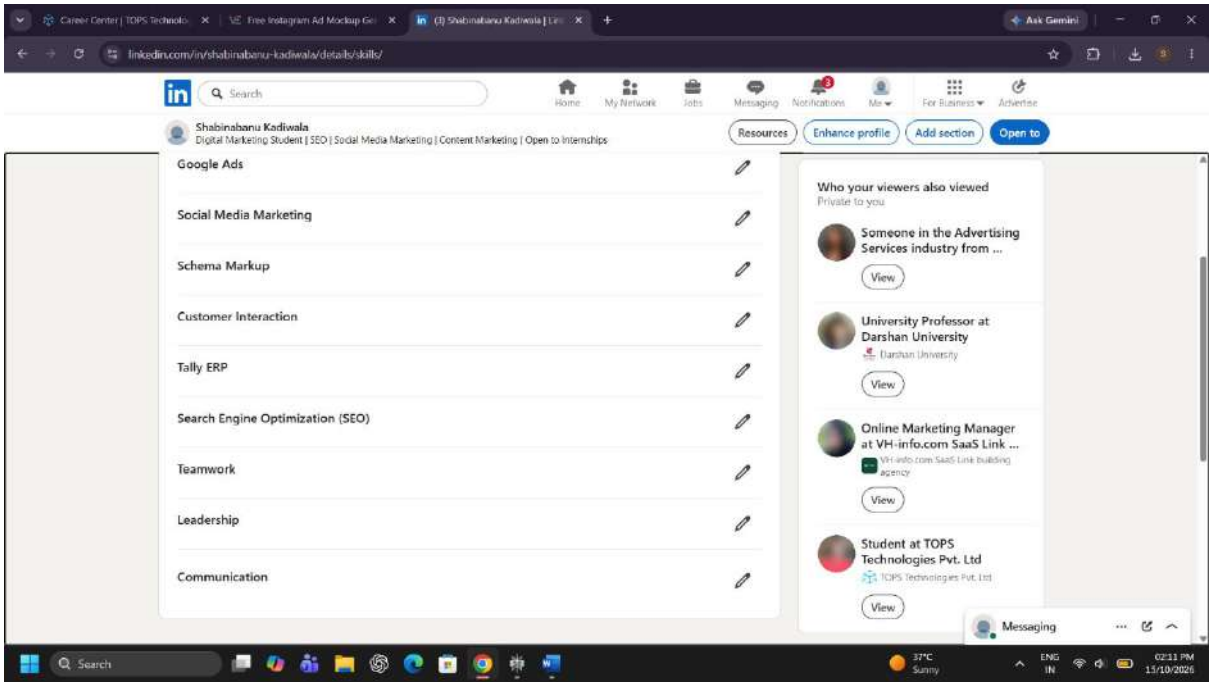

My Favorite Idea: Idea 1 — Send This Song to Someone Special.

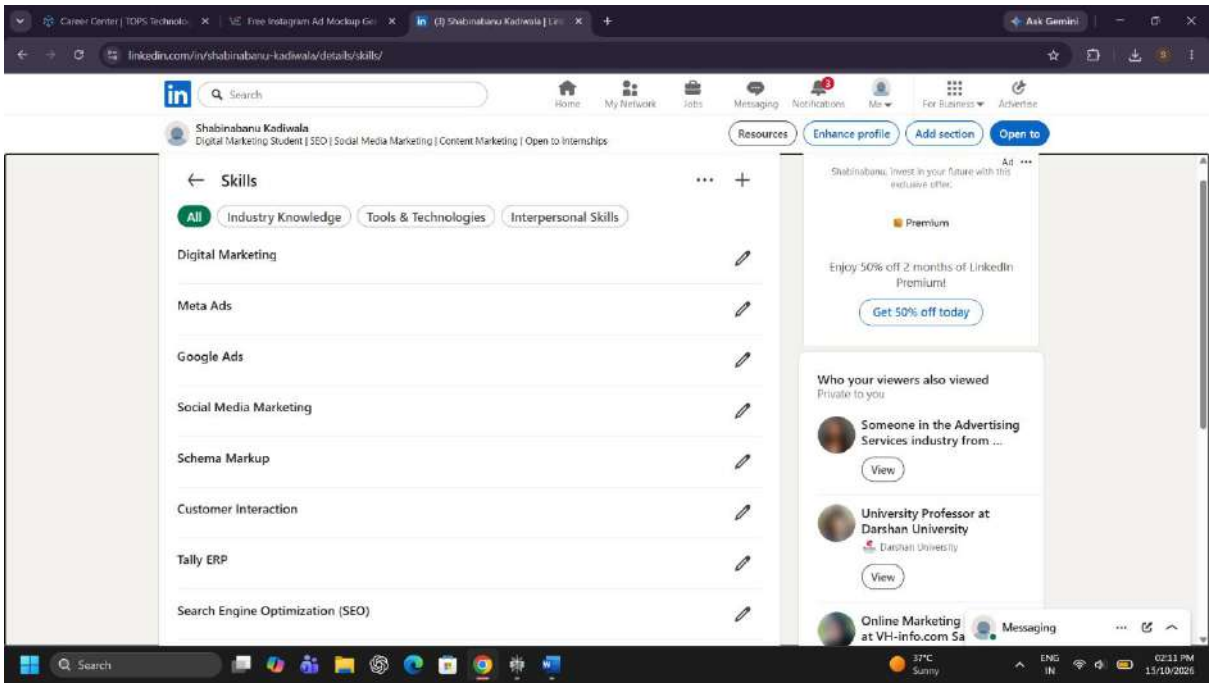

Reason: Emotional content can create a personal connection with viewers and give them a reason to share the Reel privately with friends. The strong opening hook and relatable message make it suitable for increasing Sends, while the song may also encourage Saves

About
Im a BBA graduate from Darshan University (CGPA 8.05/10) and a Digital Marketing student at TOPS Technologies, building a career in SEO, social media marketing and digital advertising.
During my internship at Mitticool Clay Creation (Oct 2025 to Jan 2026), I assisted showroom visitors from different cities, states and countries, handled inquiries received through IndiaMART, followed up with interested buyers by phone, and uploaded around 100 products on IndiaMART and TradeIndia. I completed it with an A+ performance grade.
In my training, I run an SEO blog on WordPress and a technology blog on Blogger, applying on-page SEO (meta tags, schema markup, robots.txt, XML sitemaps) and using Google Search Console. I also set up a Google Business Profile for a local shop and practise social media management with Meta Business Suite.
Im looking for an entry-level role or internship in digital marketing where I can apply my skills, keep learning and contribute to a team.

Task 3: LinkedIn business page best practices

Best practice	How it improves visibility or attracts clients
Complete the Page with a clear tagline, description, industry, website, and relevant keywords	LinkedIn members can search using keywords, so a keyword-rich description helps the business appear for relevant

Best practice	How it improves visibility or attracts clients
	searches and immediately communicates what it offers.
Publish valuable, consistent content such as case studies, customer stories, industry insights, and product education	Useful posts keep the Page active, build credibility, and give potential clients a reason to follow, engage, and consider the business.
Use clear calls-to-action and lead-generation tools, such as “Contact us,” website links, newsletters, or Lead Gen Forms	A specific next step converts interest into enquiries by guiding visitors toward a demo, consultation, catalogue, or contact form.
Encourage employees to engage with and share Page content	Employee shares expand organic reach beyond the Page’s followers and add trust through personal professional networks.

Best practice	How it improves visibility or attracts clients
Use LinkedIn analytics to identify high-performing topics, formats, and audience segments	Reviewing impressions, engagement, follower demographics, and click data helps the business create more of the content that attracts qualified prospects.

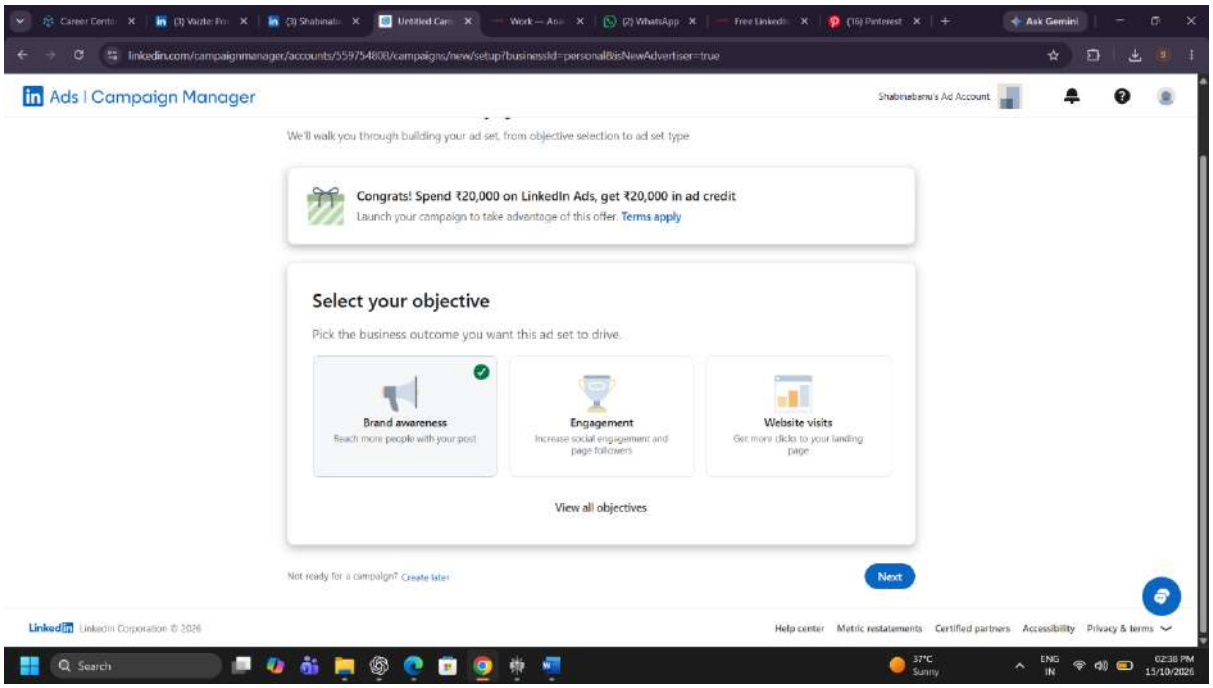

4. Facebook vs LinkedIn for business marketing

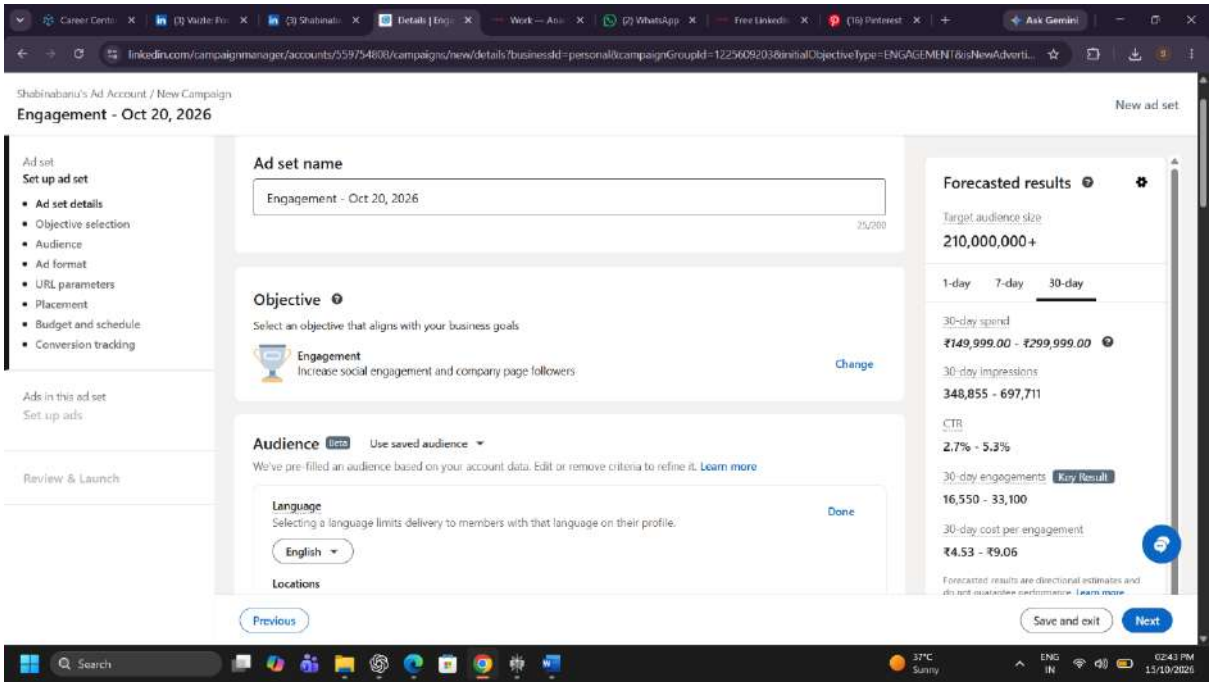

Point	Facebook	LinkedIn
Audience	Broad consumer audience across age groups, interests, and locations; suitable for B2C brands.	Professional audience including job titles, industries, companies, and decision-makers; stronger for B2B and professional services.
Content style	Visual, entertaining, community-focused, and	Insight-led, professional, and value-driven; thought

Campaign Name

SkillSpring – Digital Marketing Course

Objective

I selected Website Visits as the campaign objective in LinkedIn Campaign Manager. The purpose is to drive traffic to the course landing page and encourage interested professionals to learn more about the course.

Target Audience

- Location: India
- Audience: Marketing beginners, recent graduates, and early-career professionals
- Language: English

Sponsored Content Format

I selected Single Image Ad as the Sponsored Content format.

Reason for choosing this format: Single Image Ads are simple to create and allow the advertiser to communicate the course's benefits through an attractive visual and a clear headline. They appear in the LinkedIn feed and can encourage professionals to visit the course website.

Sample Advertisement

Headline: Master Digital Marketing in 30 Days

Ad Copy:
Want to build practical digital marketing skills? Join SkillSpring Academy's online course to learn SEO, paid advertising, and marketing analytics. Develop useful skills at your own pace and take the next step in your professional journey.

Call to Action: Learn More

Destination URL: A course landing page containing the syllabus, course details, and enrollment information.

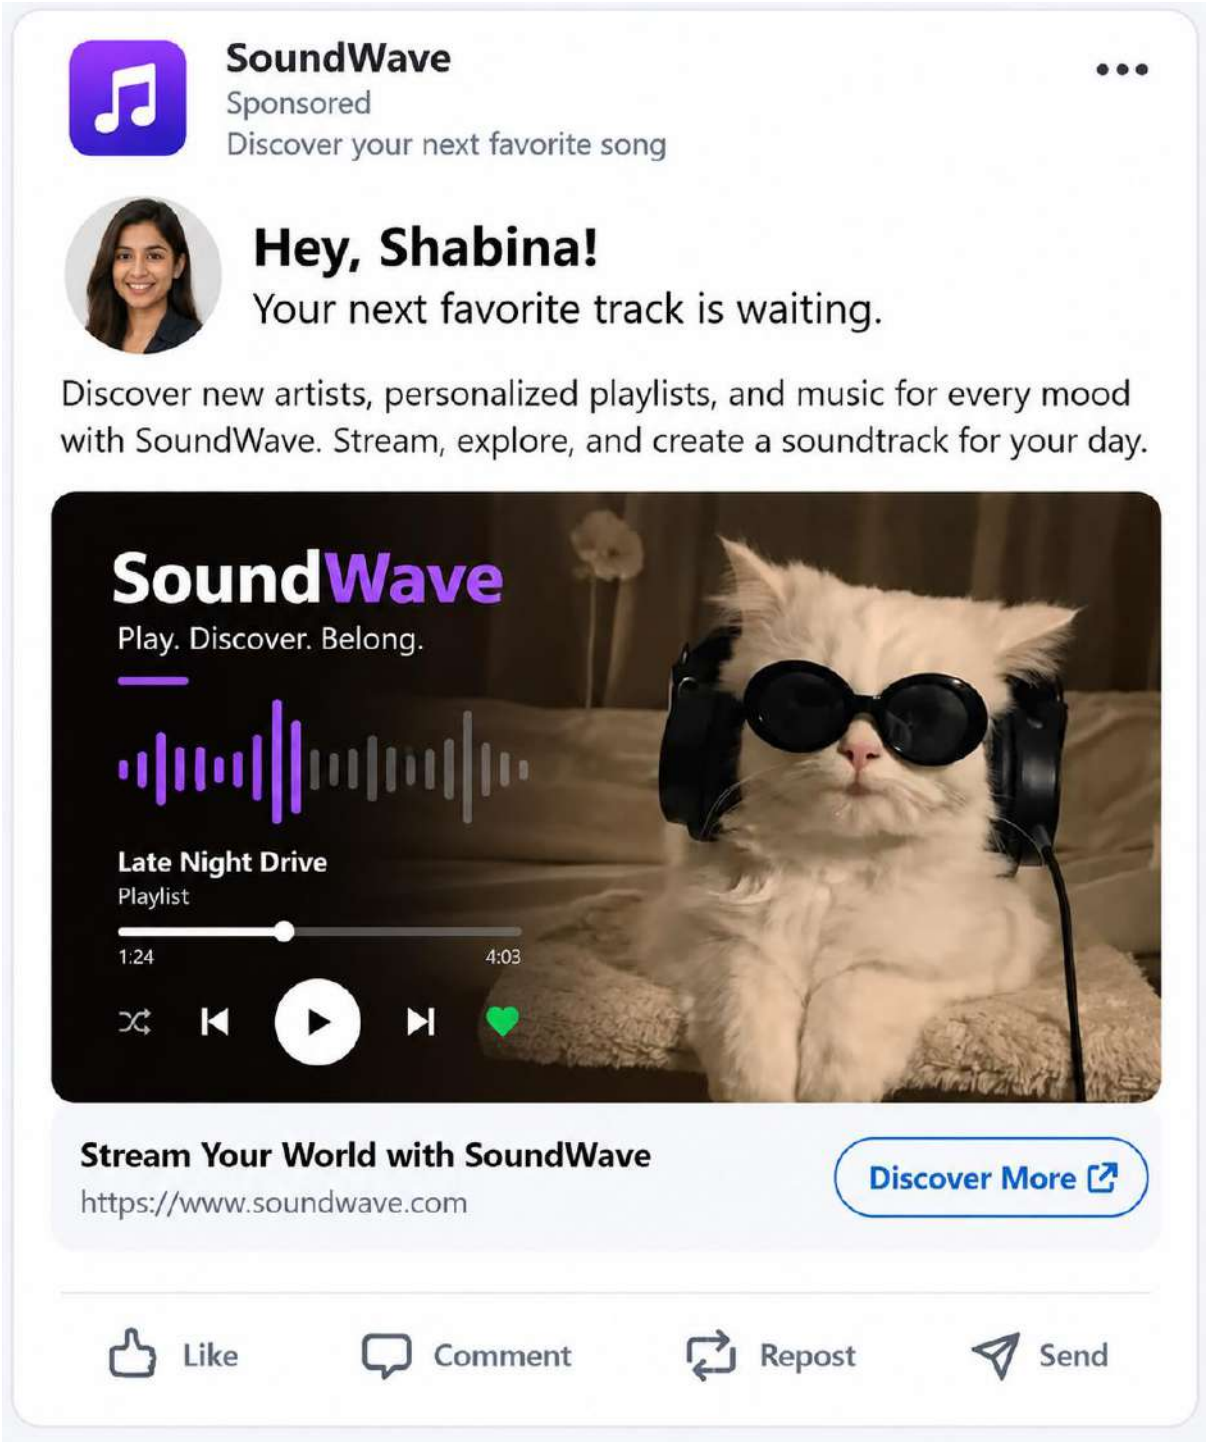

Budget and Schedule

I explored the Budget & Schedule section in Campaign Manager and reviewed the daily budget and campaign scheduling options. A proposed test budget for this fictional campaign is ₹1,000 per day for seven days, giving a planned budget of ₹7,000 before any applicable taxes or billing adjustments.

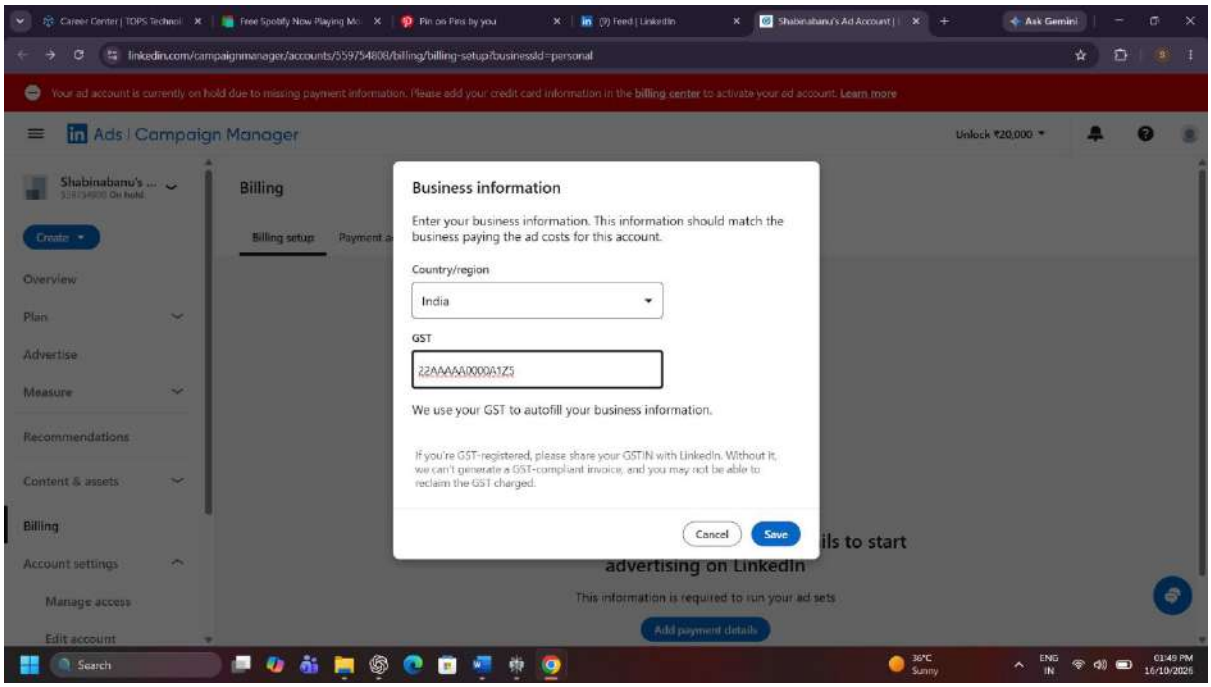

Conclusion

I used LinkedIn Campaign Manager to prepare a draft campaign for SkillSpring Academy. The Website Visits objective and Single Image Sponsored Content format are appropriate for promoting an online course because they aim to attract relevant professionals to the course landing page. The campaign can be evaluated using website visits, click-through rate, and course enrollment performance.

Task 5: AI Tools for LinkedIn Ad Reporting and Campaign Management

Two useful tools for managing and analyzing LinkedIn advertising campaigns are HubSpot Ads and Supermetrics.

1. HubSpot Ads

Key feature: HubSpot connects with LinkedIn Ads to track campaign performance, report on metrics such as impressions and clicks, and connect advertising activity with leads and customer data. This helps marketers understand which campaigns are generating results.

Safety tip: Connect only the correct LinkedIn advertising account, review the permissions requested, and give access only to authorized team members. Avoid sharing account passwords.

Official resource: https://knowledge.hubspot.com/ads/connect-your-linkedin-ads-account-to-hubspot

2. Supermetrics

Key feature: Supermetrics transfers LinkedIn Ads data into reporting tools such as Google Sheets, Looker Studio, Excel, and Power BI. Reports can be refreshed automatically, helping marketers compare campaign spending, clicks, impressions, and conversions.

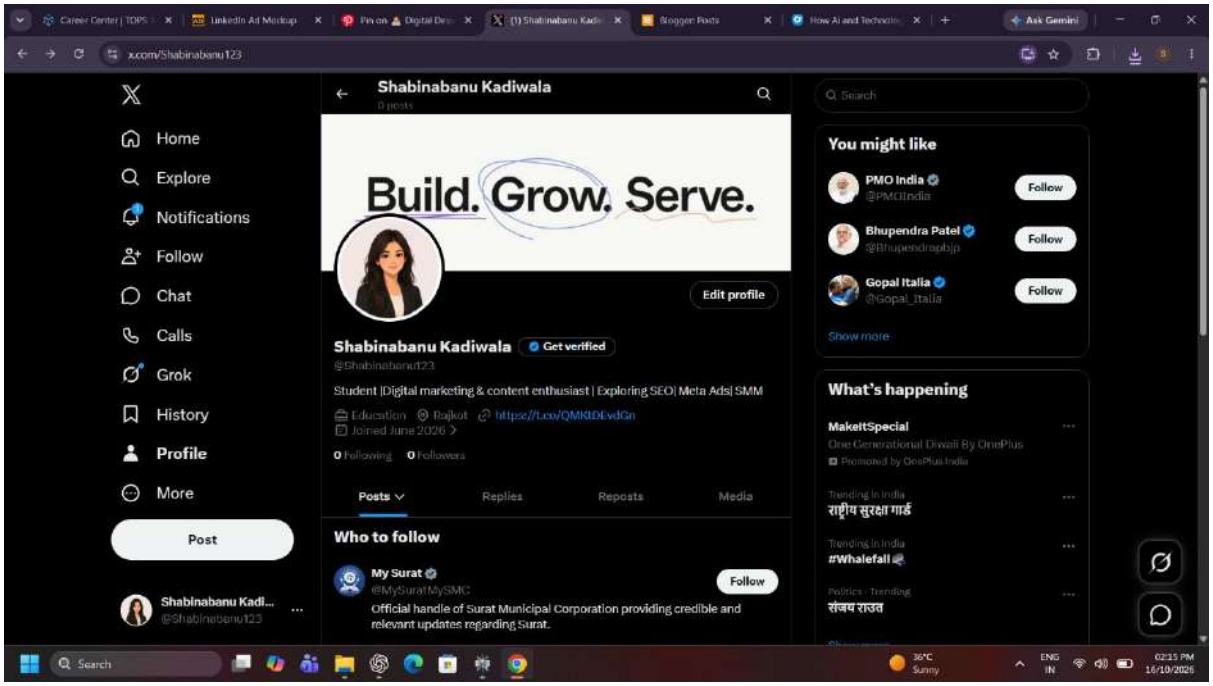

Safety tip: Use the official integration, authorize only the accounts you are permitted to access, and protect exported reports because they may contain confidential business information.

Official resource: https://docs.supermetrics.com/docs/linkedin-ads-connection-guide

Conclusion

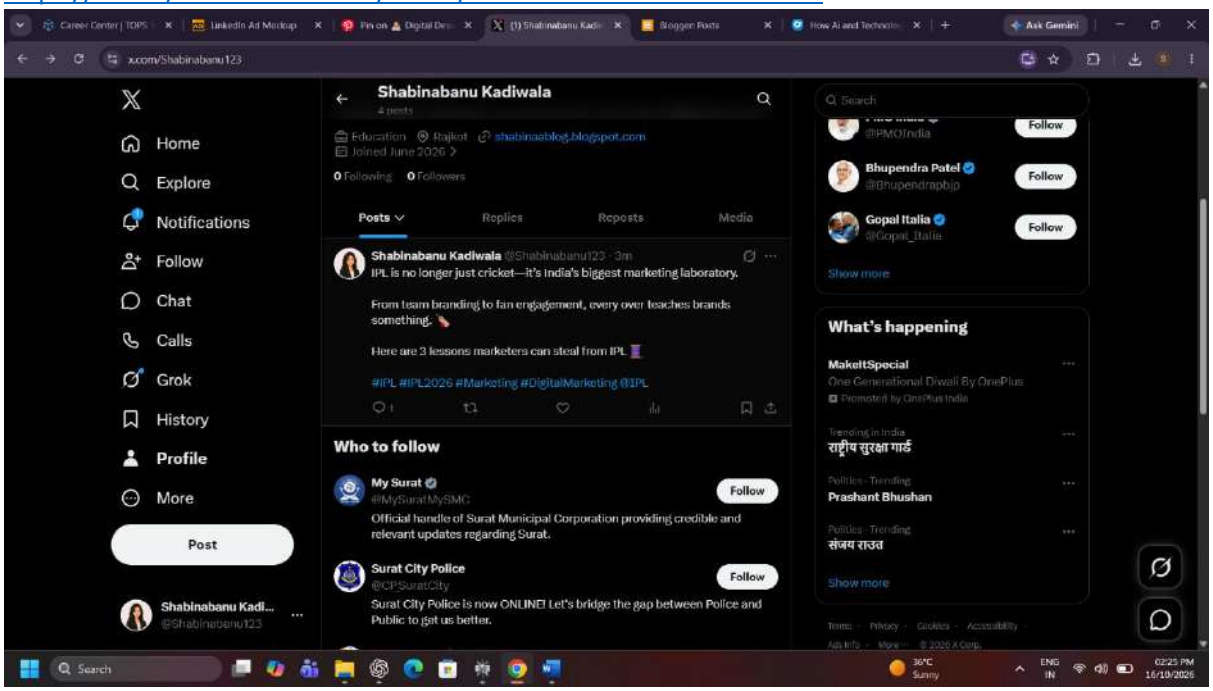

Both tools can reduce manual reporting work and help marketers make data-driven decisions. HubSpot is especially useful for connecting advertising performance with leads and customer information, while Supermetrics is useful for consolidating advertising data into reports and dashboards. For safe automation, marketers should use authorized integrations and avoid bots that scrape personal profiles, send unsolicited messages, or bypass LinkedIn's rules.

Task 1:

Task 2:

https://x.com/Shabinabanu123/status/2111017305501257837?s=20

Task 3. Feed analysis note

After observing my X feed, three signals appear to influence which posts appear at the top:

1. Recency and live conversation: Posts about current cricket matches, breaking news, or trending hashtags often appear higher, especially shortly after posting. This suggests X gives priority to timely content while a topic is active.
2. My engagement history: Posts similar to those I have liked, replied to, reposted, or spent time reading appear more often. X states that its For You timeline ranks relevance using a neural network trained on interactions such as likes, reposts, and replies.
3. Who I follow and my interests: Content from accounts I follow, topics I follow, and accounts followed by people in my network appears more frequently. X identifies these as core recommendation signals.

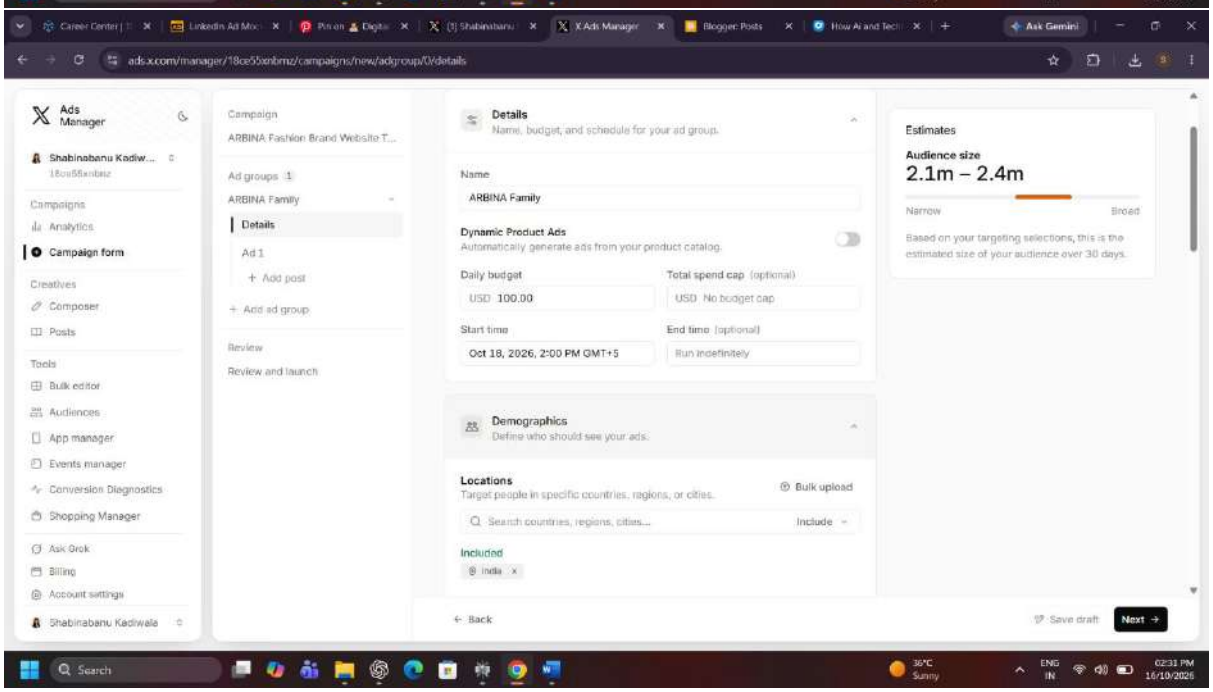

Conclusion: My feed is likely ranked through a mix of freshness, predicted personal relevance, and social-graph signals. A post is more likely to reach the top if it is recent, matches my demonstrated interests, and has strong early engagement from accounts connected to my network.

Task 5:

Question 5: Billing and Payment Options for X Ads in India

X Ads provides self-service advertising accounts with payment options that include supported credit and debit cards. According to the official X Ads Help Center, supported card networks include Visa, Mastercard, and American Express, subject to account and card eligibility.

Payment Options and Billing

1. Credit and debit cards: Supported Visa, Mastercard, and American Express cards can be used, subject to eligibility.
2. Automatic billing: X charges the registered card when the account reaches a billing threshold or when a scheduled billing charge is due.
3. Manual payment: A Pay Now option may be available to pay an outstanding balance.
4. Invoices: Advertisers can view their billing transactions and invoices in the Billing section of Ads Manager.

UPI and net banking are not listed as standard payment methods in the official self-service billing instructions. Payment availability should be verified in the account.

Steps to Add a Payment Method

1. Visit https://ads.x.com/ and sign in to your X Ads account.
2. Open the Billing section in Ads Manager.
3. Click Add card.
4. Enter the required card details, including the card number, expiry date, CVV, and billing address.
5. Click Add payment method to submit the details.

6. Complete any required card verification.
7. Return to the Billing section and check whether the card has been approved and activated.

X may place a temporary pre-authorization to verify the card. The exact amount and availability of payment methods should be confirmed in the account.

Task 1. Comparison: X Ad Types

Feature	Promoted Tweet / Promoted Ad	Followers Ads	App Install Ads
Main objective	Increase awareness, engagement, traffic, or conversation around a Post	Gain new, relevant followers for an X handle	Drive app downloads and app-store clicks
Placement	Home timelines, search results, profile pages, and official X clients; labelled "Promoted" business.x	"Who to follow" suggestions and follower-growth placements	Home timelines, profiles, and post-detail pages; placement can be customised business.
Format	Text, image, or video Post that behaves like an organic Post—users can like, reply, and repost it business.x	Account-focused promotion, usually with a "Follow" action	Image, video, or carousel Ads with App Buttons linking to Google Play/App Store.
Ideal use case	Launching a campaign, amplifying an offer, joining a trending conversation,	Building a long-term owned audience for regular updates	Promoting a new app, feature launch, or seasonal download push.

Feature	Promoted Tweet / Promoted Ad	Followers Ads	App Install Ads
	or driving website visits	and community engagement
Best metric	Engagement rate, impressions, link clicks	Cost per follower, follower growth, audience quality	Cost per install, app clicks, install rate.

Task 3. ₹10,000 Budget Split: Music Playlist App

Recommended split: ₹7,000 for Audience Bidding / App Install optimisation + ₹3,000 for a Maximum Reach test.

Allocation	Amount	Purpose	Justification
Audience bidding / app-install optimisation	₹7,000	Reach users most likely to install the playlist app	This is the performance core: X's app-install optimisation targets people likely to install, making it suitable for a small budget where every rupee must produce measurable results.
Maximum reach	₹3,000	Build initial awareness among a broad music-loving audience	Reach campaigns maximise unique reach and use autobid to obtain results efficiently within budget.
Daily limit	About ₹1,000–₹1,250/day for an 8–10 day run	Prevent early budget exhaustion and allow learning	A daily cap controls pacing, while X states it will not exceed the set daily budget.

Justification: With only ₹10,000, I would prioritise installs over pure awareness. I would run the reach test for the first 2–3 days to identify which creative and audience responds best, then shift most of the remaining budget toward the higher-performing install-focused audience. X also advises avoiding major changes during the initial learning period of roughly 3–5 days.

Task 4: Mini Case Study: Myntra

Campaign: "Big Fashion Festival—Your Wardrobe Upgrade Starts Here"
Objective: Drive app installs and sales during Myntra's festive sale.
Ad type: App Install Campaign using an Image Ad with an App Button and carousel creatives showing trending outfits, discounts, and the Myntra app interface.
Targeting: Fashion and shopping enthusiasts, mobile users, lookalikes of existing customers, and people engaging with sale/fashion conversations.
Why it could succeed: The ad combines a time-bound discount with visually appealing product imagery and a direct app-store CTA—matching X's guidance to use eye-catching visuals, concise benefit-driven copy, and app buttons for install campaigns.
Expected KPI: Lower cost per install and higher first-order conversions during the sale period.

Task 5:

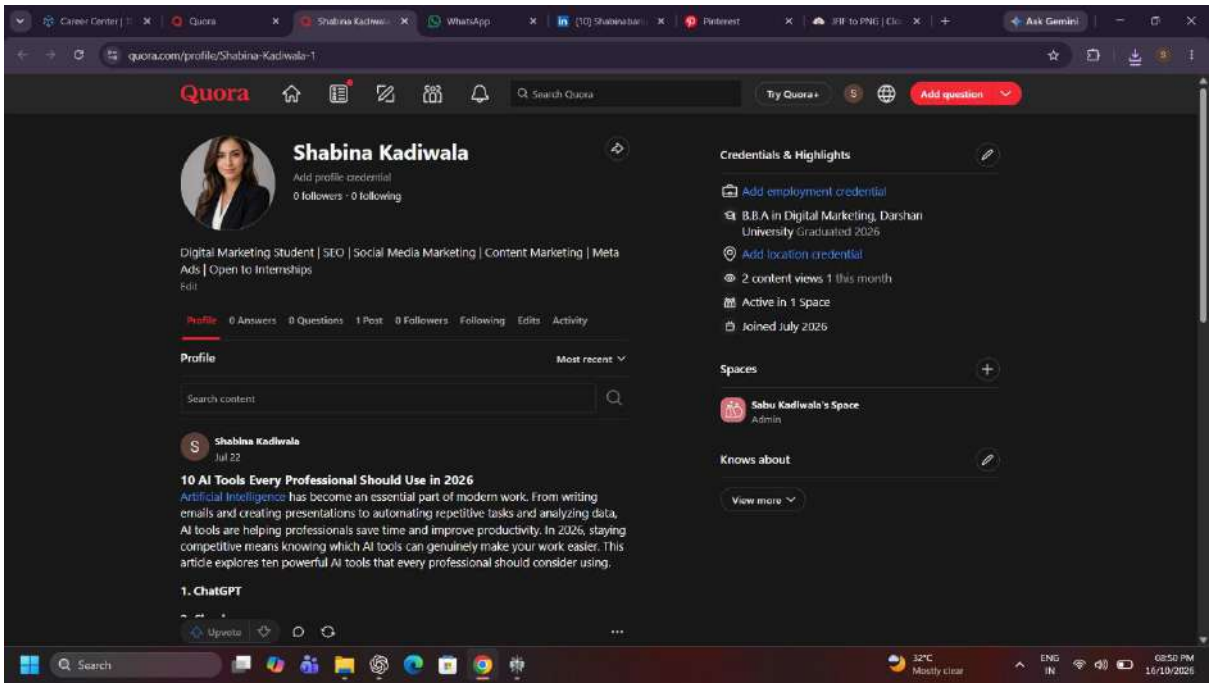

AI-generated headline suggestions:

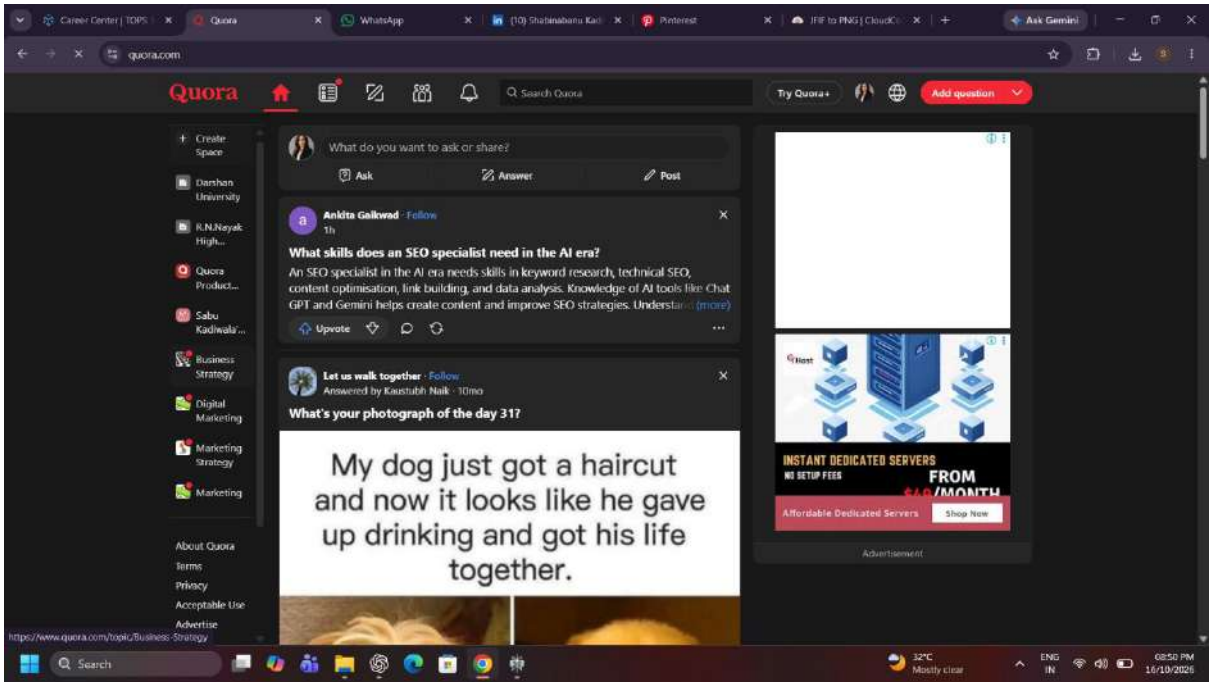

1. “Every Six. Every Wicket. Every IPL Update. Follow Us!”
2. “IPL Fever Starts Here 🏏 Follow for the Latest Buzz!”
3. “Beyond the Scoreboard: IPL News, Stats & Hot Takes!”

I would choose Headline 1: “Every Six. Every Wicket. Every IPL Update. Follow Us!”

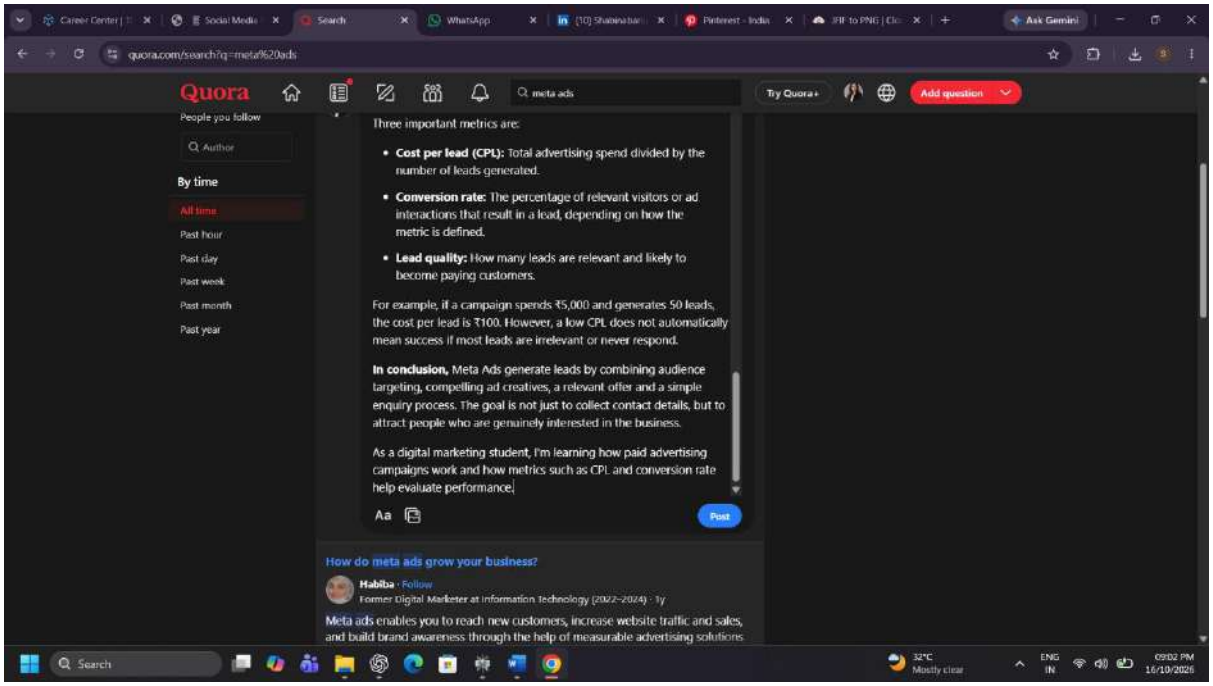

This headline is short, catchy, and relevant to IPL fans. It highlights the exciting moments of cricket and promises regular updates. The phrase “Follow Us!” provides a clear call-to-action that encourages users to follow the cricket news handle. Its simple wording makes it easy to read while scrolling through X.

Three important metrics are:
Cost per lead (CPL): Total advertising spend divided by the number of leads generated.
Conversion rate: The percentage of relevant visitors or ad interactions that result in a lead, depending on how the metric is defined.
Lead quality: How many leads are relevant and likely to become paying customers.
For example, if a campaign spends ₹5,000 and generates 50 leads, the cost per lead is ₹100. However, a low CPL does not automatically mean success if most leads are irrelevant or never respond.
In conclusion, Meta Ads generate leads by combining audience targeting, compelling ad creatives, a relevant offer and a simple enquiry process. The goal is not just to collect contact details, but to attract people who are genuinely interested in the business.
As a digital marketing student, I'm learning how paid advertising campaigns work and how metrics such as CPL and conversion rate help evaluate performance.

customers on Facebook and Instagram and encouraging them to share their contact details or enquire about a product or service.
Here is how the process works:
1. Target the right audience
Businesses can use Meta Ads targeting options to reach people based on factors such as location, interests and demographics, where available. For example, a digital marketing institute in Ahmedabad could target people interested in learning digital marketing in its service area.
2. Create an attractive advertisement
The ad should explain the offer clearly and give people a reason to take action. For example, an institute might advertise a free digital marketing webinar or a course consultation.
3. Use a lead generation form
Meta offers lead ads that can collect information such as a person's name, email address or phone number through an instant form. This

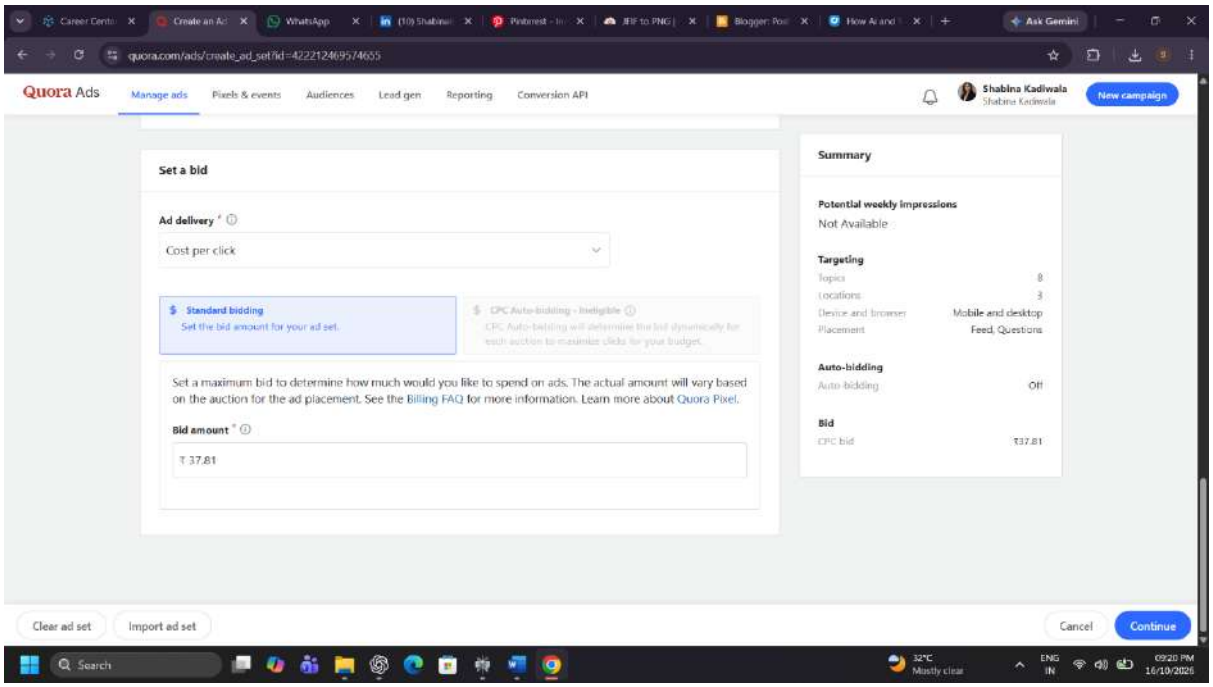

Task 3: Top five answers: authority strategies

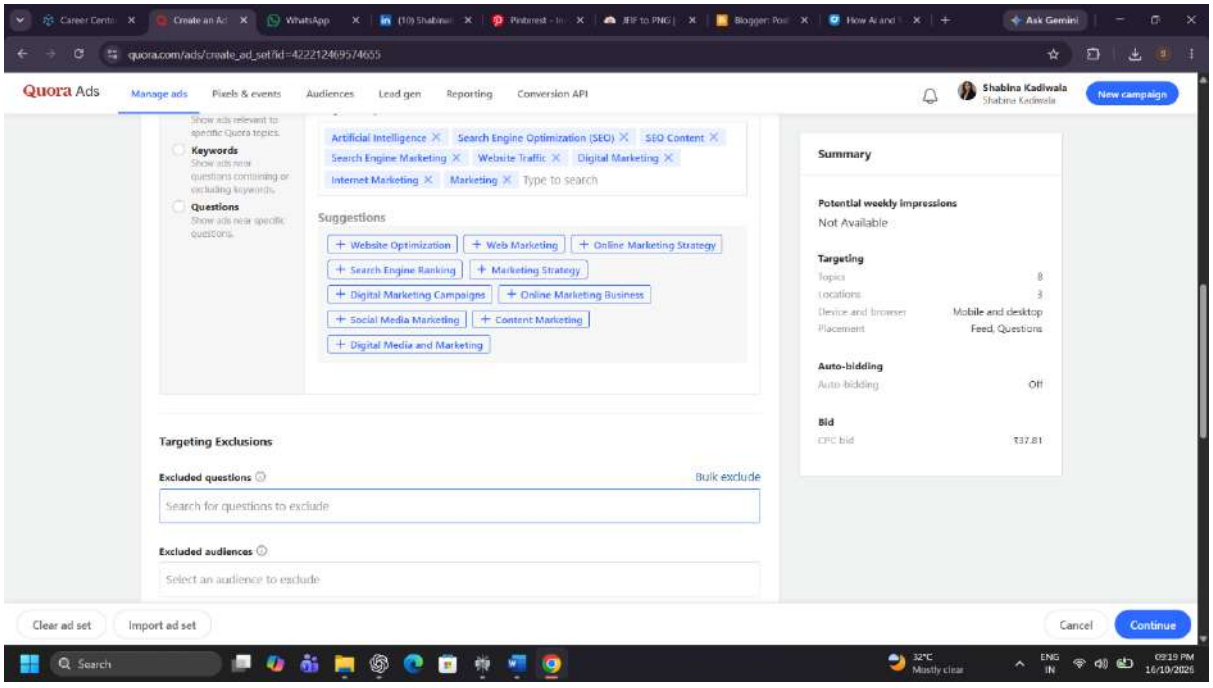

For a trending question such as “How do I grow a small business on Instagram in India?”, top answers usually build authority in three ways:

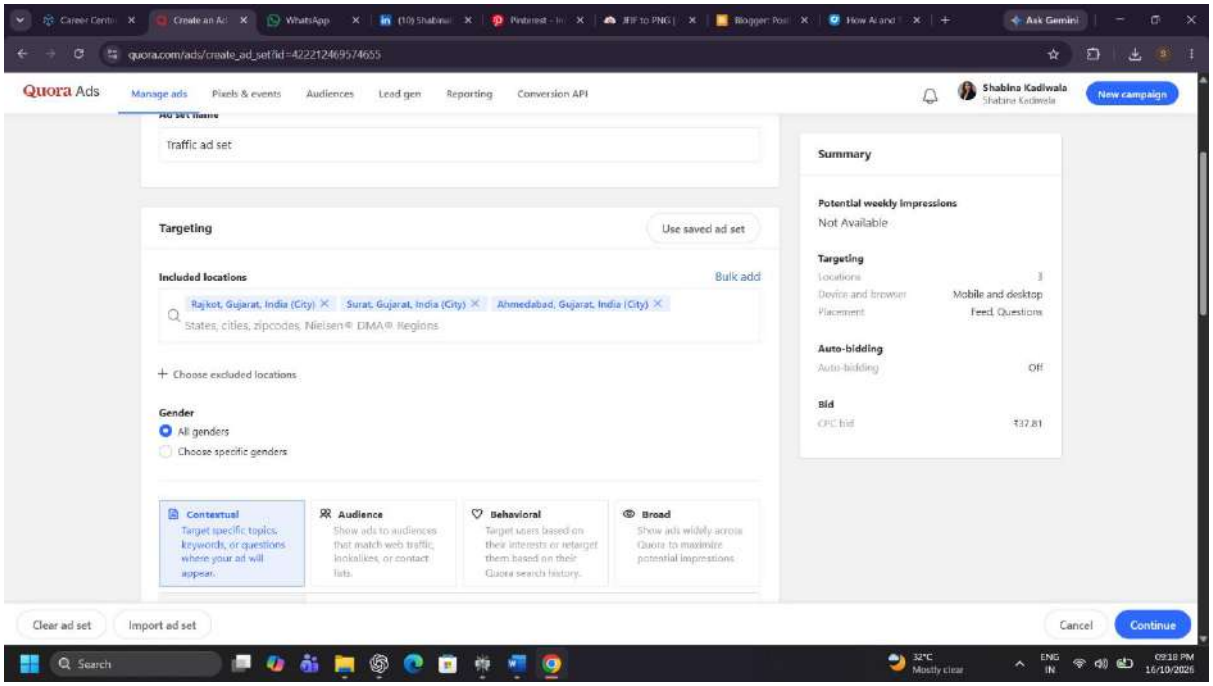

Strategy	What strong writers do	Why it works
Use data and current trends	They mention short-form video, Instagram Reels, WhatsApp commerce, vernacular content, or AI-powered personalization rather than generic advice. eliteasia+1	Readers trust answers that reflect what is happening now.
Tell a mini case study	They describe a real or realistic example: “A small clay-products brand increased enquiries by posting Reels showing the making process.”	Stories make advice concrete and memorable.

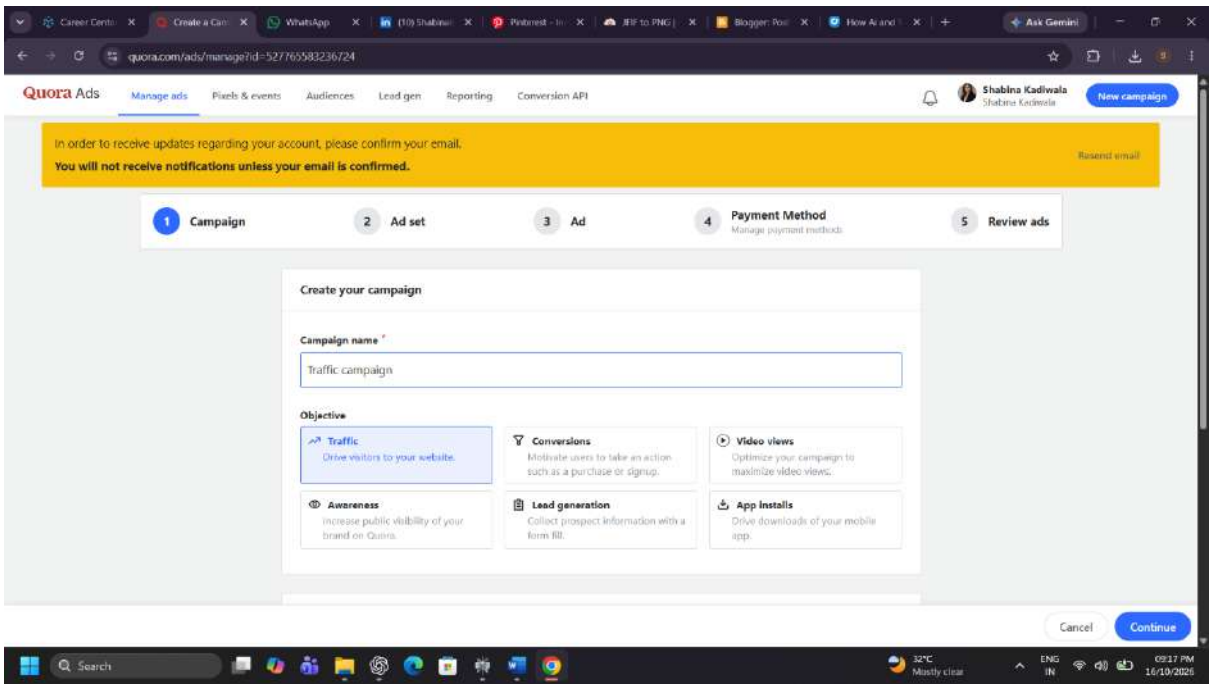

Strategy	What strong writers do	Why it works
Show credibility through profile and structure	They use a real photo, a niche credential, a concise bio, clear headings, numbered steps, and links to a blog or LinkedIn.	Readers can quickly verify that the person has relevant experience.

Task 5:

Act as a digital content marketer who specializes in writing engaging Quora answers. Generate three alternative opening hooks for a Quora answer that introduces a YouTube channel featuring focus music and study playlists for students.

The hooks should:

1. Create curiosity without using misleading clickbait.
2. Highlight a practical benefit for students.
3. Sound natural and useful in a Quora answer.
4. Avoid unsupported claims about productivity or academic performance.
5. Lead naturally into a recommendation to visit the channel.

After generating the three hooks, explain which one is most likely to earn clicks and why, considering relevance, curiosity, clarity, and trust.

ChatGPT outputs:

Option 1: Need music that helps you settle into a study session? Here are focus playlists worth trying.

(Benefit-led, natural and closely aligned with the reader's problem.)

Option 2: Distracted while studying? Try this focus-music channel for your next 25-minute session.

(Identifies a specific problem and offers an easy next step.)

Option 3: “Lo-fi, ambient or piano? Find a study soundtrack that fits the way you like to work.”

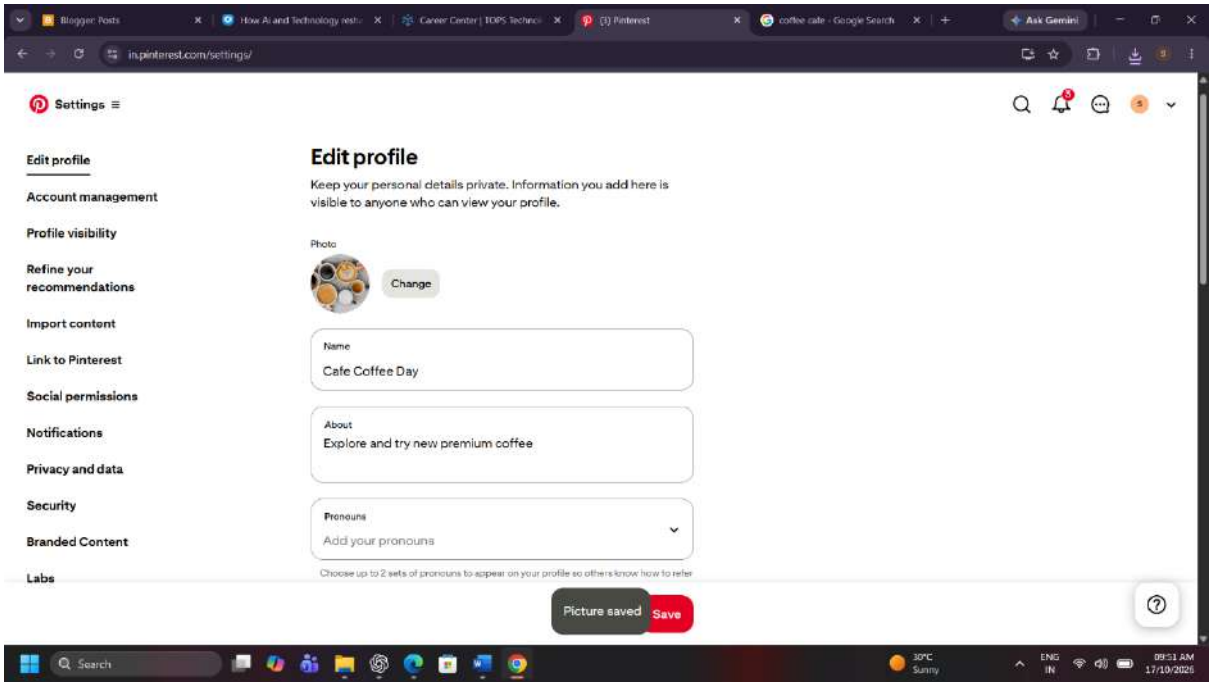

(Uses familiar music categories to create interest and set expectations.)

Why I would test Option 2 first:

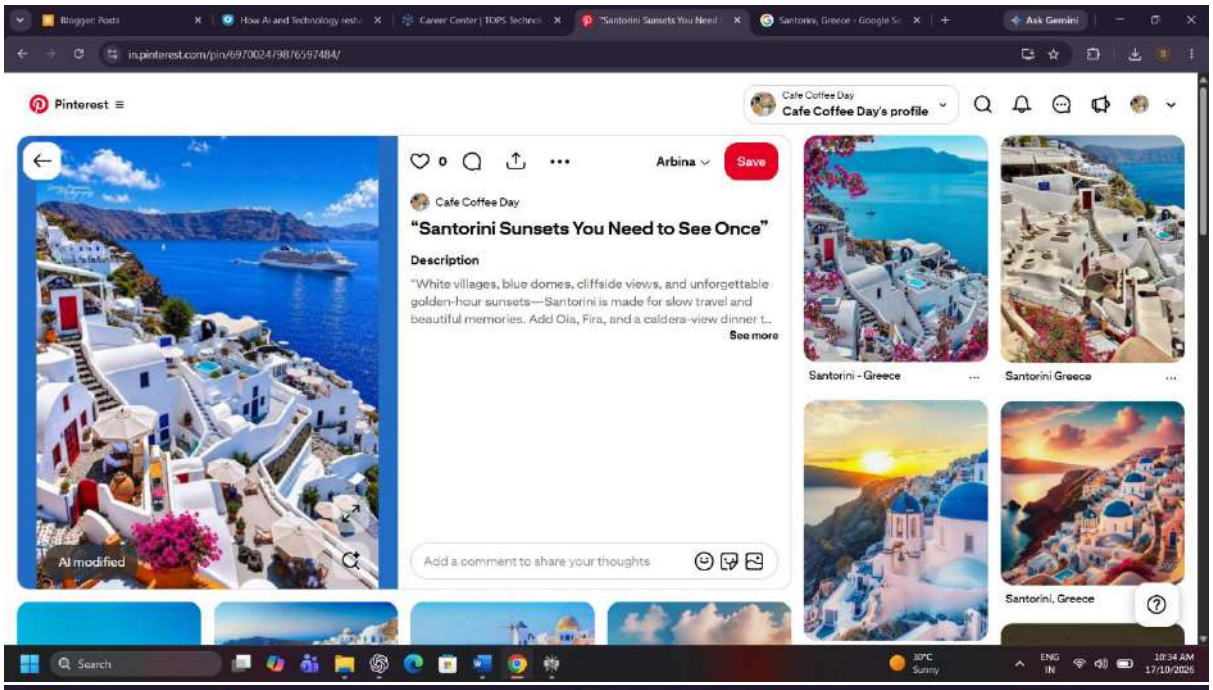

- Relevance: It directly addresses a problem students recognize.
- Curiosity: Readers may want to know whether the channel suits their study routine.
- Specificity: The 25-minute session gives the reader a concrete way to try the recommendation.
- Actionability: The reader can immediately test the suggestion rather than simply browse music.

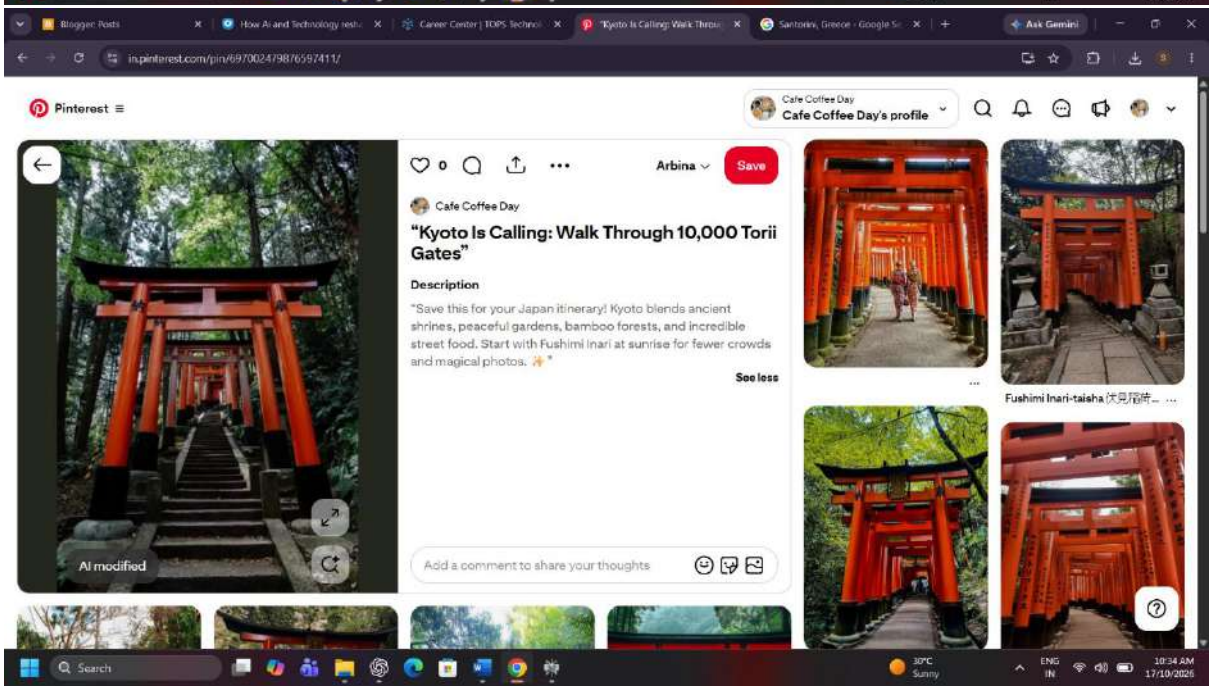

However, there is no performance data here. Calling it the winner means it is the strongest initial hypothesis, not that it has proven to generate the most clicks. Option 1 may perform better with a broad audience because it makes a less demanding promise.

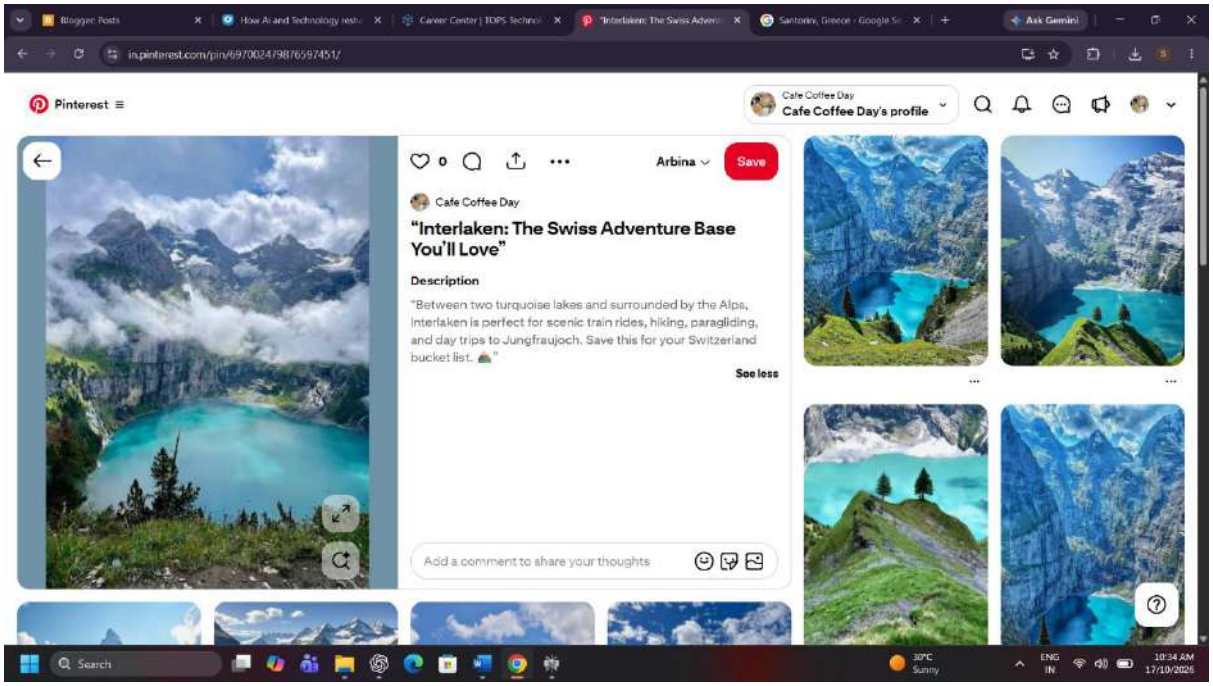

Task 1:

Instagram

Content type	Why it performs well
Short Reels (15–30 seconds)	Reels are designed for discovery, so they can reach non-followers through the Reels feed and Explore page. Short, clear videos also have a better chance of being watched fully, which supports reach.
Educational carousels	Carousels encourage users to swipe, save, and revisit useful information. They work well for tips, step-by-step guides, product comparisons, and “5 things to know” posts. Carousels have been reported as Instagram’s highest-engagement format.
Behind-the-scenes content	Showing how a product is made, how a team works, or the real person behind the page builds trust and relatability. This makes followers feel connected to the brand rather than only seeing polished promotional posts.

X (Twitter)

Content type	Why it performs well
Threads	Threads let a creator explain an idea in a structured, easy-to-read sequence. They keep users on the post longer and are especially effective for storytelling, tips, opinions, and breakdowns.
Short native videos	Native videos—uploaded directly to X rather than shared through an external link—tend to receive stronger visibility and engagement. Short clips with captions work well because many users scroll without sound.

Content type	Why it performs well
Polls and conversation-starting posts	Polls are quick to answer, so they lower the effort needed to engage. Questions, hot takes, and trending-topic posts also invite replies, which increases visibility and helps a page grow organically.

Task 2. SWOT Analysis: New Food Review Page on Instagram

SWOT factor	Analysis
Strength	Authentic, local-first reviews: The page can review real street food, cafés, and restaurants in a specific city, using honest ratings, prices, location, and short Reel reviews. This makes content useful and trustworthy for people searching where to eat.
Weakness	Limited initial credibility and resources: As a new page, it may not have followers, brand collaborations, or a consistent budget for visiting many places. Early reviews may also be limited to nearby locations.
Opportunity	High demand for quick local food discovery: Many users look for "best cafés near me," budget food options, and new restaurant openings. Short Reels, Google Maps-style location tags, and collaborations with small local food businesses can help the page grow organically.
Threat	Heavy competition and changing algorithms: Established food bloggers, restaurant pages, and viral food creators already compete for attention. Instagram's algorithm changes can also reduce Reel reach, making consistent growth difficult.

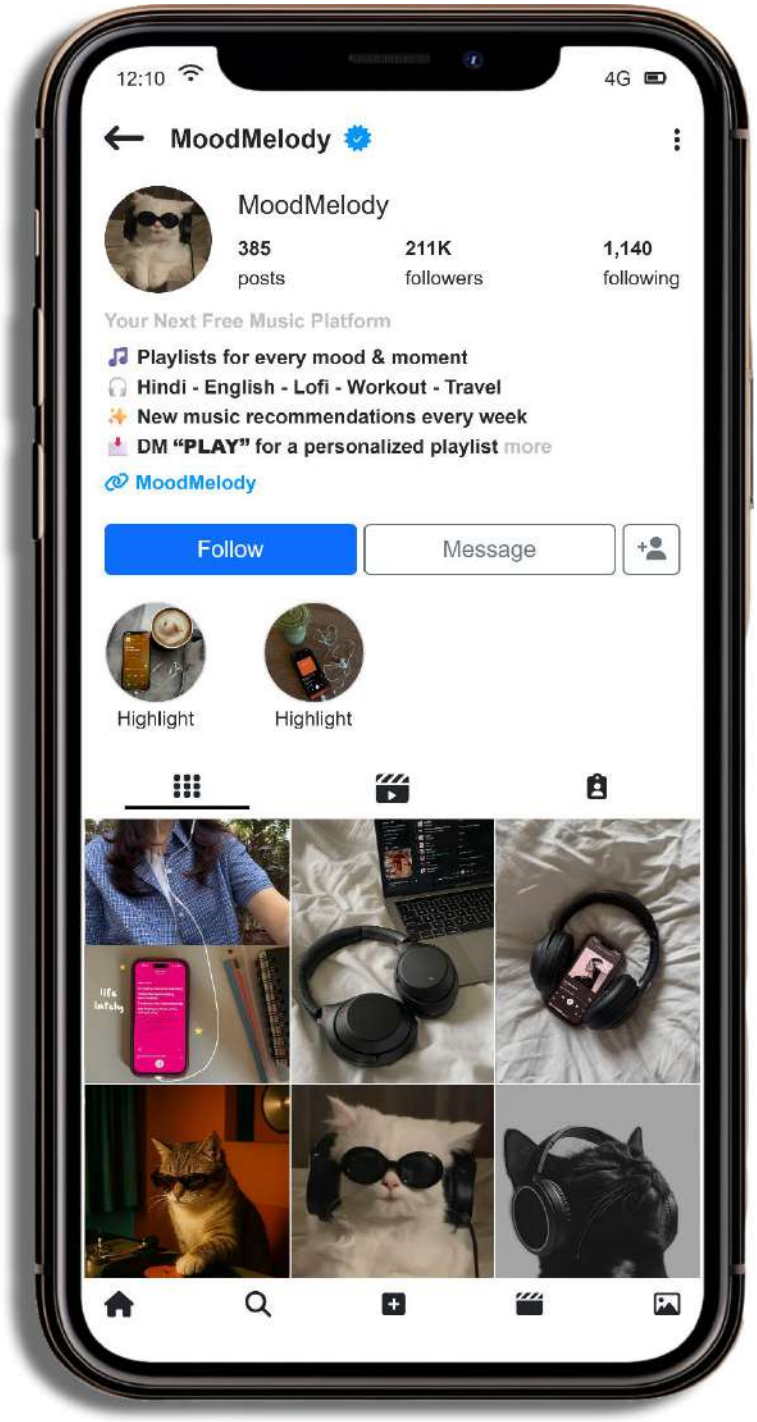

One-line positioning idea:

"Honest food reviews, real prices, and the best places to eat in your city—one Reel at a time."

Task 3. Content Strategy for a Flipkart-Style Deals Page on Facebook

Post daily deal Reels and carousel posts highlighting limited-time discounts, price drops, and “deal of the day” products, because short visual posts quickly show the product, old price, and discounted price. Use Facebook Stories for flash sales, coupon codes, and countdown timers to create urgency and encourage immediate action. Share short demo videos showing how a product works or why the deal is worth buying, since demonstration builds trust and reduces hesitation. Add polls and “Which deal should I post next?” questions to increase comments and understand follower preferences. Finally, post at consistent times—such as morning and evening—when users are likely scrolling, and always include a clear CTA like “Comment ‘DEAL’ for the link.”

Sunday	Twitter/X	Poll	“Best Sunday food?”	“What is the ultimate Sunday comfort food?	11:00 AM

Day	Platform	Content type	Post topic	Caption idea	Suggested time (IST)
				🍕 / 🌭 / 🍔 / 🍝”

Content-type balance

- Instagram: Reels, stories, memes, offers, carousels
- Facebook: Feature posts, behind-the-scenes video, offers
- Twitter/X: Short announcements, memes, polls, offers

This covers the required platforms and includes image, story, offer, meme, reel, poll, and video formats. A calendar helps keep posting consistent and aligned with campaigns and audience activity

Task 5: Five creative post ideas for a small business

1. Coffee of the Day ☕

- Post idea: Promote the café's best-selling coffee.
- Caption: “Your daily dose of happiness, one cup at a time. ☕”
- Platform: Instagram and Facebook.
- Tool: Canva.
- How to visualize: Use a coffee photo, warm brown background, bold heading, and café logo.

2. Behind the Scenes 🎬

- Post idea: Show how coffee is prepared.
- Caption: “From fresh beans to your favourite brew. Here's a little café magic!”
- Platform: Instagram Reels.
- Tool: CapCut.
- How to visualize: Combine short clips of grinding beans, pouring espresso, and making latte art. Add music and text transitions.

3. Special Offer 🍕

- Post idea: Promote a weekend coffee offer.
- Caption: “Coffee tastes better when shared! Visit us for our weekend special.”

- Platform: Instagram Stories and Facebook.
- Tool: Canva.
- How to visualize: Create a colourful promotional poster with drink photos, an offer headline, and clear terms. Use a real offer if publishing.

4. Café Vibes 🌿

- Post idea: Showcase the café's atmosphere.
- Caption: “Good coffee, cozy corners, and conversations that last.”
- Platform: Instagram and Facebook.
- Tool: CapCut or Canva.
- How to visualize: Make a short café tour with smooth transitions, background music, and text overlays.

5. New Seasonal Drink 🍓

- Post idea: Introduce a new seasonal menu item.
- Caption: “Something refreshing is here! Meet our latest seasonal drink. 🍓”
- Platform: Instagram, Facebook, and Stories.
- Tool: Canva or CapCut.
- How to visualize: Use bright drink photography, animated text, ingredient close-ups, and a launch-date announcement.

ChatGPT was used to generate five creative social media post ideas for a fictional local café called Bean There Café. The ideas include Coffee of the Day, Behind the Scenes, Special Offer, Café Vibes, and New Seasonal Drink. Canva can be used to create promotional graphics and image posts, while CapCut can be used to edit short videos and Reels. These ideas help the café promote its products, engage customers, and increase brand awareness.

Task 1. Instagram vs. YouTube Algorithms

Instagram and YouTube both personalize content, but Instagram emphasizes social interaction and short-form engagement, while YouTube emphasizes watch behavior and long-term viewer satisfaction.

Platform	How ranking works	Key ranking factors
Instagram	Separate systems rank Feed, Reels, Stories, and Explore. It predicts which posts a user is most likely to engage with, based on their recent activity and relationship with the creator.	1. Watch time / completion for Reels—longer views and rewatches signal strong interest. 2. Sends per reach—shares through DMs are treated as a strong recommendation signal. Likes, comments, profile visits, and relationship history also matter.
YouTube	Recommendations are personalized using a viewer's history and interests, then videos are ranked by predicted satisfaction and performance.	1. Watch history and interest affinity—past views, searches, likes, and "Not interested" feedback shape suggestions. 2. Watch time / average percentage viewed—videos that retain viewers longer are more likely to be recommended. Click-through rate and engagement also help.

Example: A 30-second food Reel may perform well on Instagram if viewers watch it fully and send it to friends. A 10-minute cooking video may perform well on YouTube if viewers click it and watch most of it.

Task 2. One-Week Instagram Content Calendar: Food Delivery App

A consistent schedule of one post per day at 7:30 PM IST is chosen because evening is a high-intent time for food-delivery decisions, while daily posting builds familiarity and gives the algorithm regular engagement signals.

Day	Time	Content
Monday	7:30 PM	"Monday Mood: No Cooking Tonight"—Reel showing a quick order being placed, with a 10% first-order code.
Tuesday	7:30 PM	Trending Food Poll—Story + carousel: "Butter chicken or paneer tikka?" to encourage replies and saves.
Wednesday	7:30 PM	Behind-the-App Reel—30-second demo of live order tracking, restaurant ratings, and secure payment.
Thursday	7:30 PM	Customer Spotlight—Ugc-style post featuring a real customer review and their favourite order.
Friday	7:30 PM	Weekend Offer Reel—"Friday night = pizza night" with a limited-time combo deal and countdown sticker.

Day	Time	Content
Saturday	7:30 PM	Restaurant Partner Feature—carousel introducing a local restaurant, its bestsellers, and delivery time.
Sunday	7:30 PM	Family Meal Reel—comfort-food ordering ideas for Sunday, ending with a CTA: “Order in 2 taps.”

Cadence rationale: Daily posting maintains consistency without overwhelming the team; Reels are used on high-reach days, while interactive Stories/carousels maintain engagement between major posts. Instagram’s ranking system rewards engagement actions such as watching, liking, commenting, sharing, and profile visits.

Task 3. AI-Generated Playlist-Sharing Content Ideas

Prompts used:

1. “Trending social media content ideas for music apps in 2024.”
2. “Creative Instagram Reel ideas for a new music playlist sharing feature.”
3. “Engaging UGC campaign ideas for a Spotify-style playlist sharing app.”

10 fresh content ideas:

1. “Share Your Mood in 3 Songs” challenge.
2. “Playlist Swap with a Friend” Reel template.
3. “Guess the Playlist from One Song” interactive quiz.

4. “My 2026 Soundtrack” year-in-music story format.
5. “Study, Gym, Heartbreak, Road Trip” playlist aesthetic Reels.
6. “Build a Playlist Together” collaborative playlist challenge.
7. “First Song vs. Last Song” transition trend.
8. “Playlist Cover Art Makeover” design contest.
9. “Songs That Define Your City” local-music series.
10. “Send This Playlist to Someone Who…” relatable meme-style posts.

Top 5 most relevant ideas:

1. “Share Your Mood in 3 Songs” challenge—simple, highly shareable, and directly showcases the sharing feature.
2. “Playlist Swap with a Friend” Reel template—encourages DM shares, a strong Instagram distribution signal.
3. “Guess the Playlist from One Song” quiz—drives comments and repeat engagement.
4. “Build a Playlist Together” collaborative challenge—demonstrates the product’s core social value.
5. “Songs That Define Your City” series—creates local relevance and encourages user-generated content.

Task 4. Sneaker-Drop Influencer Brief

A suitable real micro-influencer is Esha Shroff Shah (@foodholicf9), an Indian food and travel creator in the 50K–100K follower range. For a sneaker drop, she would work best through a lifestyle angle—styling the sneakers with everyday streetwear and food-outing content rather than a purely fashion-focused review.

Influencer brief:

- Campaign: Launch-week promotion for a limited-edition sneaker drop.
- Deliverable: One Instagram Reel showing an unboxing, close-up product details, and a 15-second styling transition.
- Key message: "Designed for comfort, made for the streets—drop live now on the app."
- CTA: "Tap the link in bio to shop the drop before it sells out."
- Requirements: Use the campaign hashtag, tag the brand, disclose the partnership, and post between 6–9 PM IST.

ROI tracking: Create a unique UTM-tagged link or promo code for the influencer, then measure revenue, app installs, click-throughs, and conversion rate generated from her Reel against the influencer fee.

Task 5:

SMO Weekly Client Report

Client: Wok On Fire – Indo-Chinese & Pan Asian, Rajkot
Platform: Instagram
Report period: Monday–Sunday
Prepared by: Shabina Kadiwala

Weekly Performance Summary

Wok On Fire's Instagram account showed positive growth this week, driven mainly by food Reels and limited-time offer posts. The account gained followers steadily, with strong engagement from local Rajkot audiences interested in Indo-Chinese and Pan-Asian food.

Metric	This Week	Last Week	Change
Followers	8,650	8,410	+240 (+2.9%)
Total reach	62,400	51,800	+20.5%
Engagement rate	6.2%	5.1%	+1.1 pts
Profile visits	2,180	1,760	+23.9%
Story replies / DM enquiries	145	98	+48%
Menu/link clicks	520	360	+44.4%

Top-Performing Post

Post: Viral Instagram Reel
Link: https://www.instagram.com/reel/DVBwg-iDNUj/

- Views: 160,000
- Likes: 2,404

- Approx. engagement rate on views: 1.5%

This Reel was the account's strongest content of the week, reaching a much larger audience than the account's follower base. Its high view count indicates strong watch-time performance and effective distribution through Instagram Reels, while the 2,404 likes show solid audience approval.

Why it performed well: The Reel likely used an attention-grabbing food visual, quick pacing, and content that felt relevant to Rajkot food lovers. Food Reels with close-up cooking shots, trending audio, and a clear dish focus often encourage viewers to watch fully, like, and share the content.

Recommendation: Replicate this Reel format weekly with different best-selling dishes—such as momos, Hakka noodles, chilli paneer, or Pan-Asian specials—while keeping the same strong visual hook and adding a clear CTA such as "Save this Reel for your next food craving."

Task 1:

1. Five catchy Instagram captions for a new café menu launch

Assume the café is launching a new dessert called the Choco Lava Cookie Skillet.

Caption 1 — Teaser

Fresh out of the oven, straight into your heart! 🍪♡ Meet our new Choco Lava Cookie Skillet — one bite, and you're hooked. Come try it today! #Foodie #DessertLovers #NewMenu #Foodstagram

Caption 2 — Teaser

Warning: This chocolate pull might live rent-free in your head! 🍫 Your new café obsession has arrived. #FoodTok #ChocolateLovers #FoodieLife #CafeVibes

Caption 3 — Teaser

Sweet news, foodies! 🎉 Our newest dessert is here, and your taste buds deserve a date with it. Drop by before your cravings take over! #FoodieFinds #DessertTime #FoodLovers #NewAtOurCafe

Caption 4 — Teaser

Chocolate lovers, this one's for YOU! 🍫😍 Tag the friend who owes you a dessert date and make this your next café stop. #FoodiesOfInstagram #ChocolateDessert #CafeHopping #FoodGram

Caption 5 — Teaser

Crispy edges. Gooey chocolate. Pure happiness. ✨🍪 Your coffee break just got a serious upgrade. Visit us and taste the magic! #InstaFood #FoodieHeaven #DessertGoals #CafeCulture

Task 2. One-week Instagram content calendar for a fashion brand

Brand concept: a contemporary fashion label targeting young adults. The goal is to combine product discovery, engagement, styling advice, and sales.

Day	Post type	Content idea and suggested caption	Hashtags
Monday	Image	New week, new fits. Start your week with pieces that make getting dressed effortless. ✨	#OOTD #EverydayStyle #FashionInspo
Tuesday	Reel	3 ways to style one shirt. One piece, three looks. Which one are you wearing? 👀	#StyleHacks #FashionReels #OutfitIdeas
Wednesday	Story	Pick your look! Vote: minimal neutrals or bold colors?	#StylePoll #FashionCommunity #YourStyle
Thursday	Carousel image	Details make the difference. Explore the textures, cuts, and little details behind our latest collection.	#FashionDetails #StyleGuide #NewCollection
Friday	Reel	POV: Your weekend outfit is sorted. Save this look for your next night out. 🔥	#WeekendStyle #GRWM #TrendingFashion

Saturday	Story	Behind the scenes. Take a peek at how we style and shoot our latest collection.	#BehindTheScenes #BrandStory #FashionLife
Sunday	Image	Sunday reset, style edition. Which outfit deserves a spot in next week's rotation?	#SundayStyle #WardrobeEssentials #FashionDaily

Suggested posting strategy

- Reach: Prioritize the Tuesday and Friday Reels.
- Engagement: Use Wednesday polls and Saturday behind-the-scenes Stories.
- Conversions: Add product tags, pricing, and a clear shopping CTA to relevant posts.
- Measurement: Track reach, saves, shares, profile visits, and website click weekly.

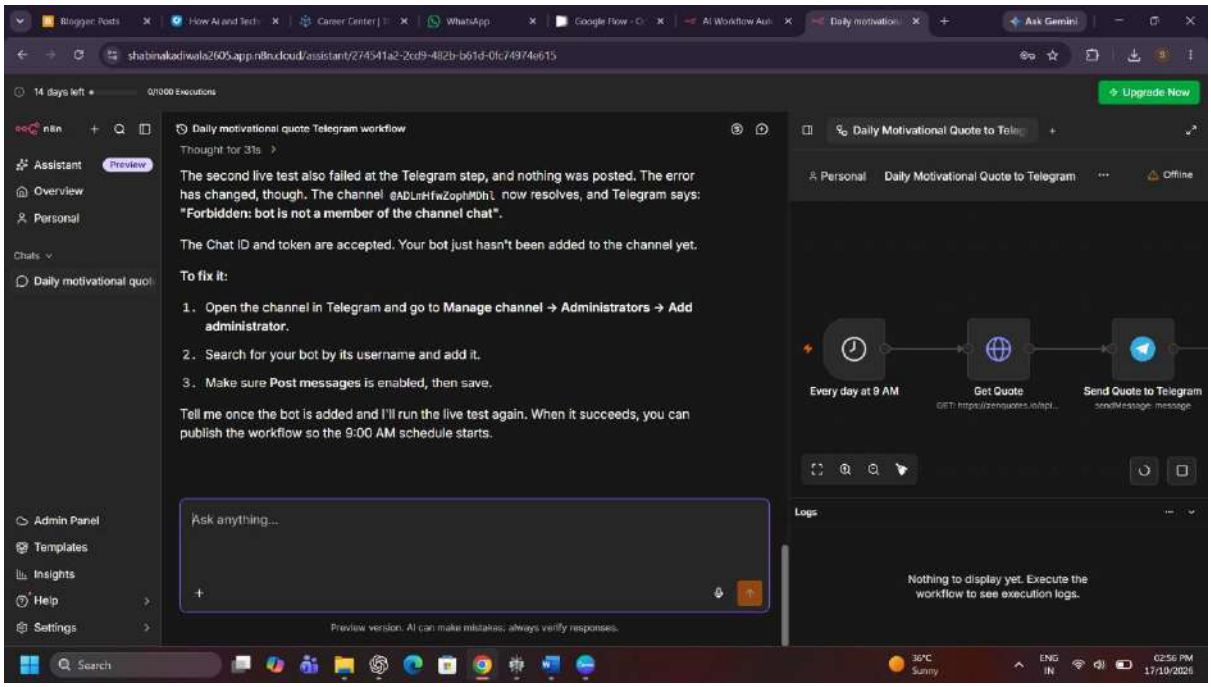

The schedule is a starting point, not a guarantee of reach. Use your account's Instagram Insights to adjust publishing times and formats based on actual audience behaviour.

Daily motivational quote Telegram workflow
Thought for 31s
The second live test also failed at the Telegram step, and nothing was posted. The error has changed, though. The channel @ADLnHfwZoph#Dhl now resolves, and Telegram says: "Forbidden: bot is not a member of the channel chat".
The Chat ID and token are accepted. Your bot just hasn't been added to the channel yet.
To fix it:
1. Open the channel in Telegram and go to Manage channel → Administrators → Add administrator.
2. Search for your bot by its username and add it.
3. Make sure Post messages is enabled, then save.
Tell me once the bot is added and I'll run the live test again. When it succeeds, you can publish the workflow so the 9:00 AM schedule starts.

Task 5: Ten video ad hooks for a PhonePe-like payments app

Assume the new feature is Split & Pay, allowing friends to divide a shared expense and settle their individual shares digitally. This is a hypothetical feature concept, not a claim about an existing PhonePe feature.

Ten hook ideas

01

The awkward moment

"Dinner was amazing. Splitting the bill? Not so much." 😅

Visual: Friends staring at a restaurant bill and fumbling with calculators.

02

The instant challenge

"Can you split a ₹1,200 bill in under 5 seconds?"

Visual: A countdown begins as the app divides the bill into individual shares.

03

The relatable friend

"There's always one friend who says, 'I'll pay you tomorrow.'"

Visual: A friend dramatically disappearing after dinner.

04

The problem-solution reveal

"Stop calculating. Start celebrating."

Visual: Messy calculations transition into a simple payment interface.

05

The unexpected twist

"Your calculator deserves a vacation."

Visual: A calculator gets pushed aside as the app handles the split.

06

The group trip

"Five friends. One hotel bill. Zero spreadsheet drama."

Visual: Friends dividing trip expenses while packing for their next adventure.

07

The direct question

"Still chasing friends for ₹240?"

Visual: Repeated payment reminders give way to a streamlined settlement flow.

08

The speed test

"Watch a group expense go from confusing to sorted."

Visual: A quick before-and-after demonstration of the feature.

09

The friendship angle

"Good friends share memories, not payment confusion."

Visual: A fun night out ends with everyone settling their shares.

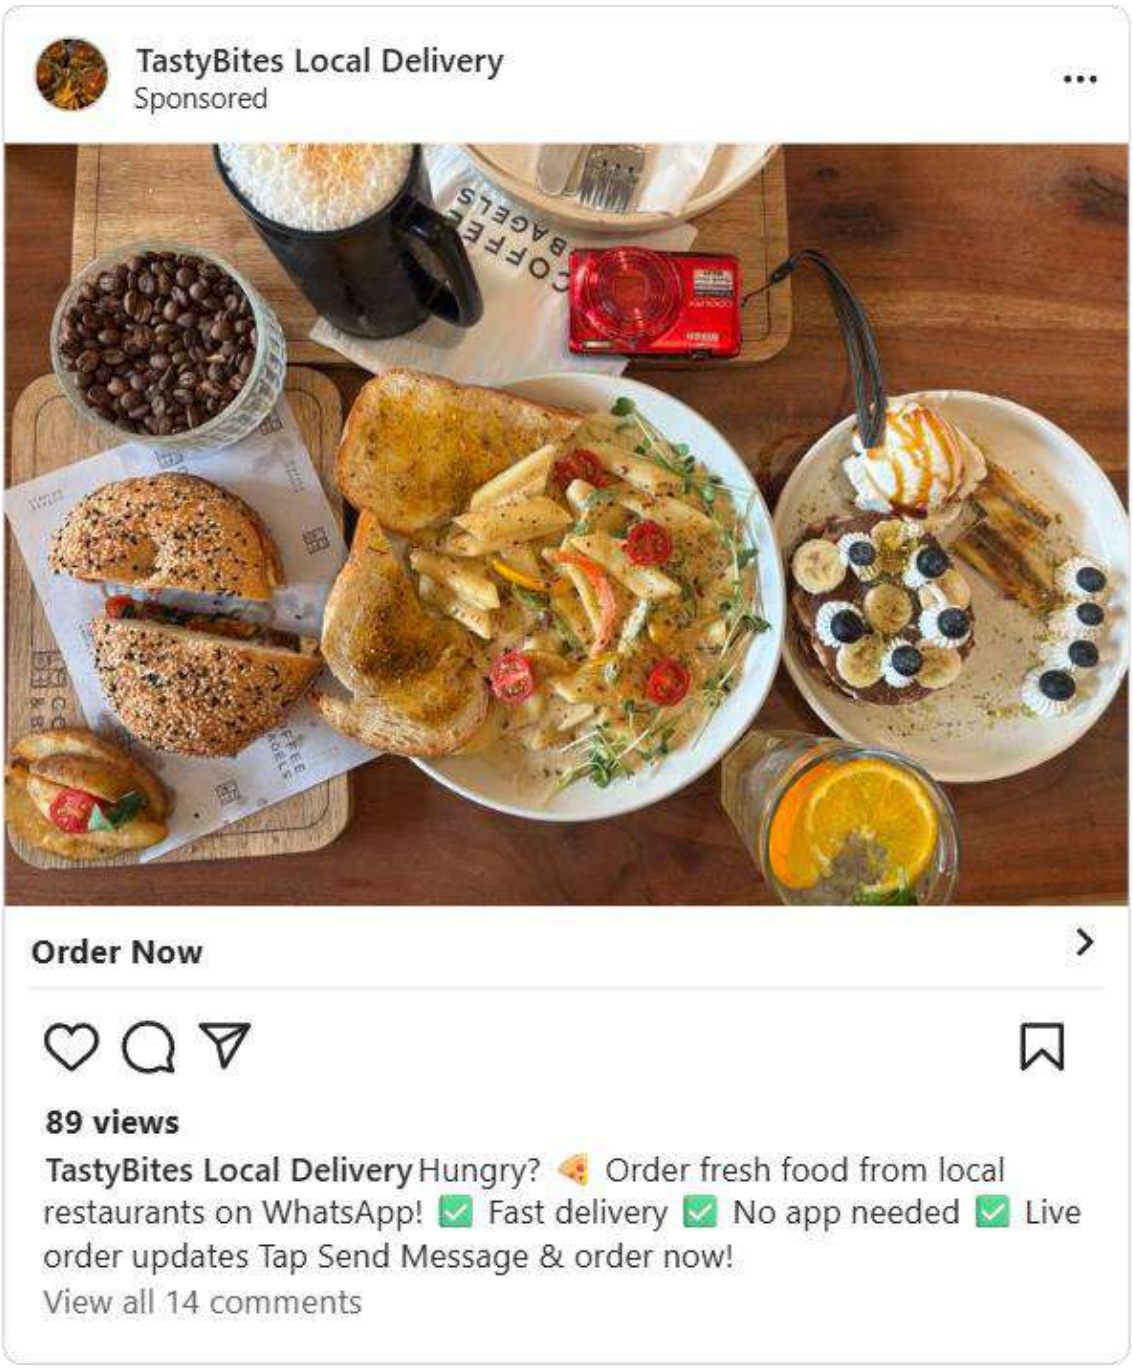

10

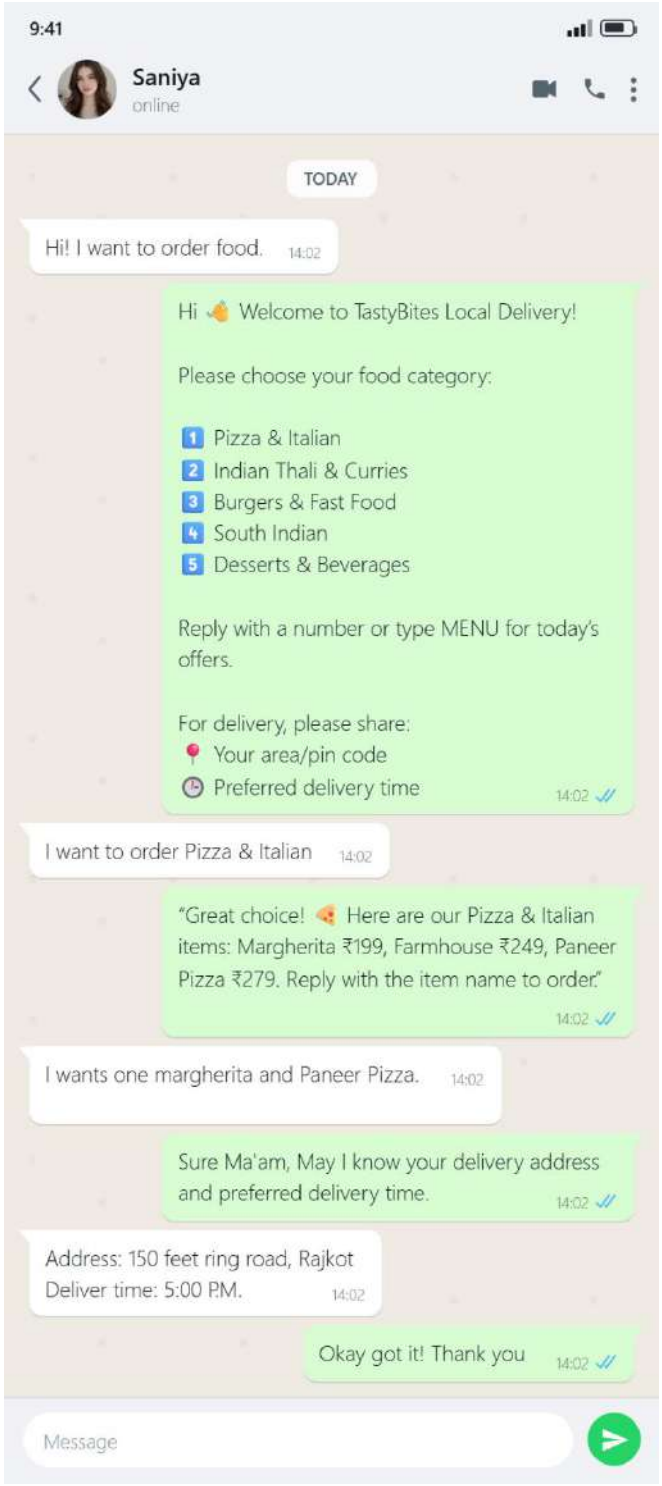

The bold promise

"Your next group payment could be the easiest part of your day."

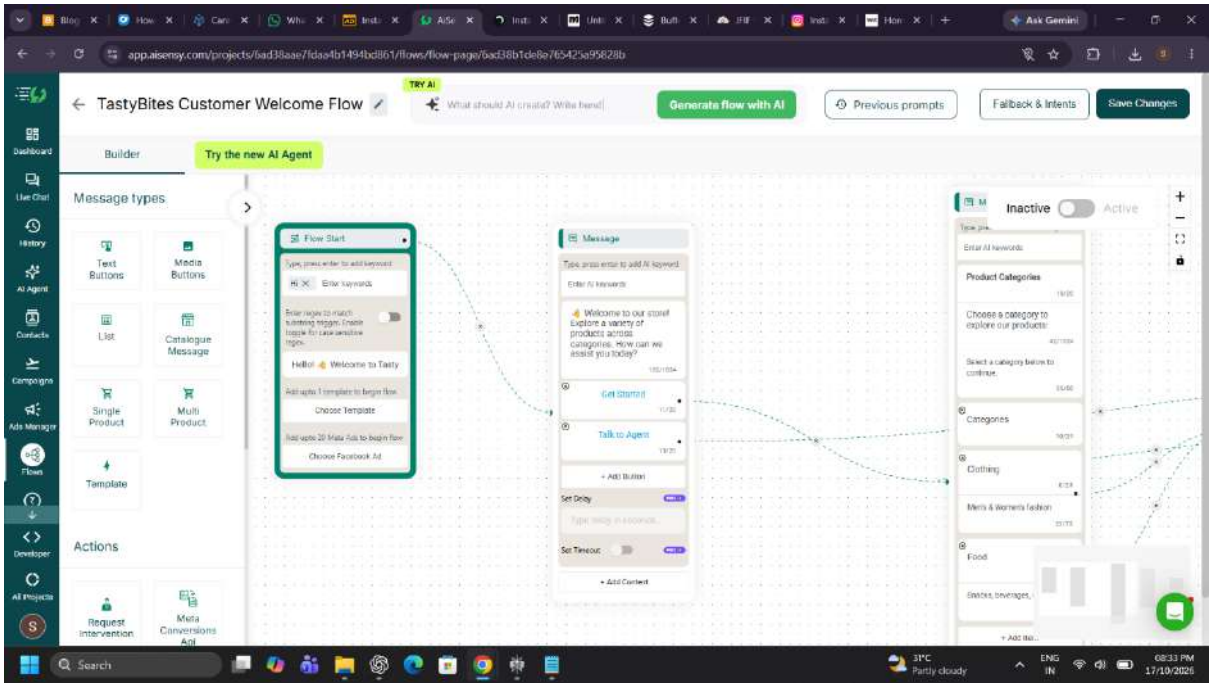

Visual: A clean app demonstration, followed by a strong download CTA.

Task 3. Research the Meta AI Business Assistant (MABA)

Three ways it can help a small business

1. Automated customer support

AI can answer common customer questions about business hours, delivery charges, payment methods, and order status.

Example: A customer asks, "What are your delivery hours?" and receives an instant reply explaining the delivery schedule.

2. Product recommendations and inquiries

AI can help customers discover suitable products or services based on their needs and preferences.

Example: A customer messages a food delivery business asking for vegetarian meals, and the assistant shares available vegetarian dishes and prices.

3. Lead generation and customer engagement

AI can collect customer preferences, guide potential buyers, and help businesses move conversations toward a purchase.

Example: A customer clicks a WhatsApp ad for a restaurant, and the assistant greets them, asks their preferred food category, and guides them toward placing an order.

Note: These are examples of AI-assisted business workflows. The exact capabilities depend on which Meta products and automation features the business has access to.

Research reference: Meta's official information confirms that its Business AI features can answer business-specific questions, recommend products, qualify leads, and support sales. Availability depends on the product, country, and business eligibility.

Task 4. Two Major Changes Introduced by the Andromeda Update and Their Impact on Digital Marketing

1. Improved AI-powered ad personalization

Change: Andromeda uses advanced machine learning to identify relevant ads from a large pool of advertisements based on users' interests and predicted relevance.

Impact on digital marketing: Brands can potentially reach more relevant audiences and improve campaign performance. Businesses should create ads for different customer interests instead of relying on one generic advertisement.

Example: A food delivery brand could test separate ads for pizza lovers, Indian food lovers, and burger lovers, directing interested customers to WhatsApp to place orders.

2. Better handling of diverse advertising creatives

Change: Andromeda is designed to process a much larger variety of ad creatives efficiently, supporting AI-powered advertising tools and automated campaigns.

Impact on digital marketing: Brands can test different images, videos, headlines, and promotional messages to discover which combinations perform best for different audiences.

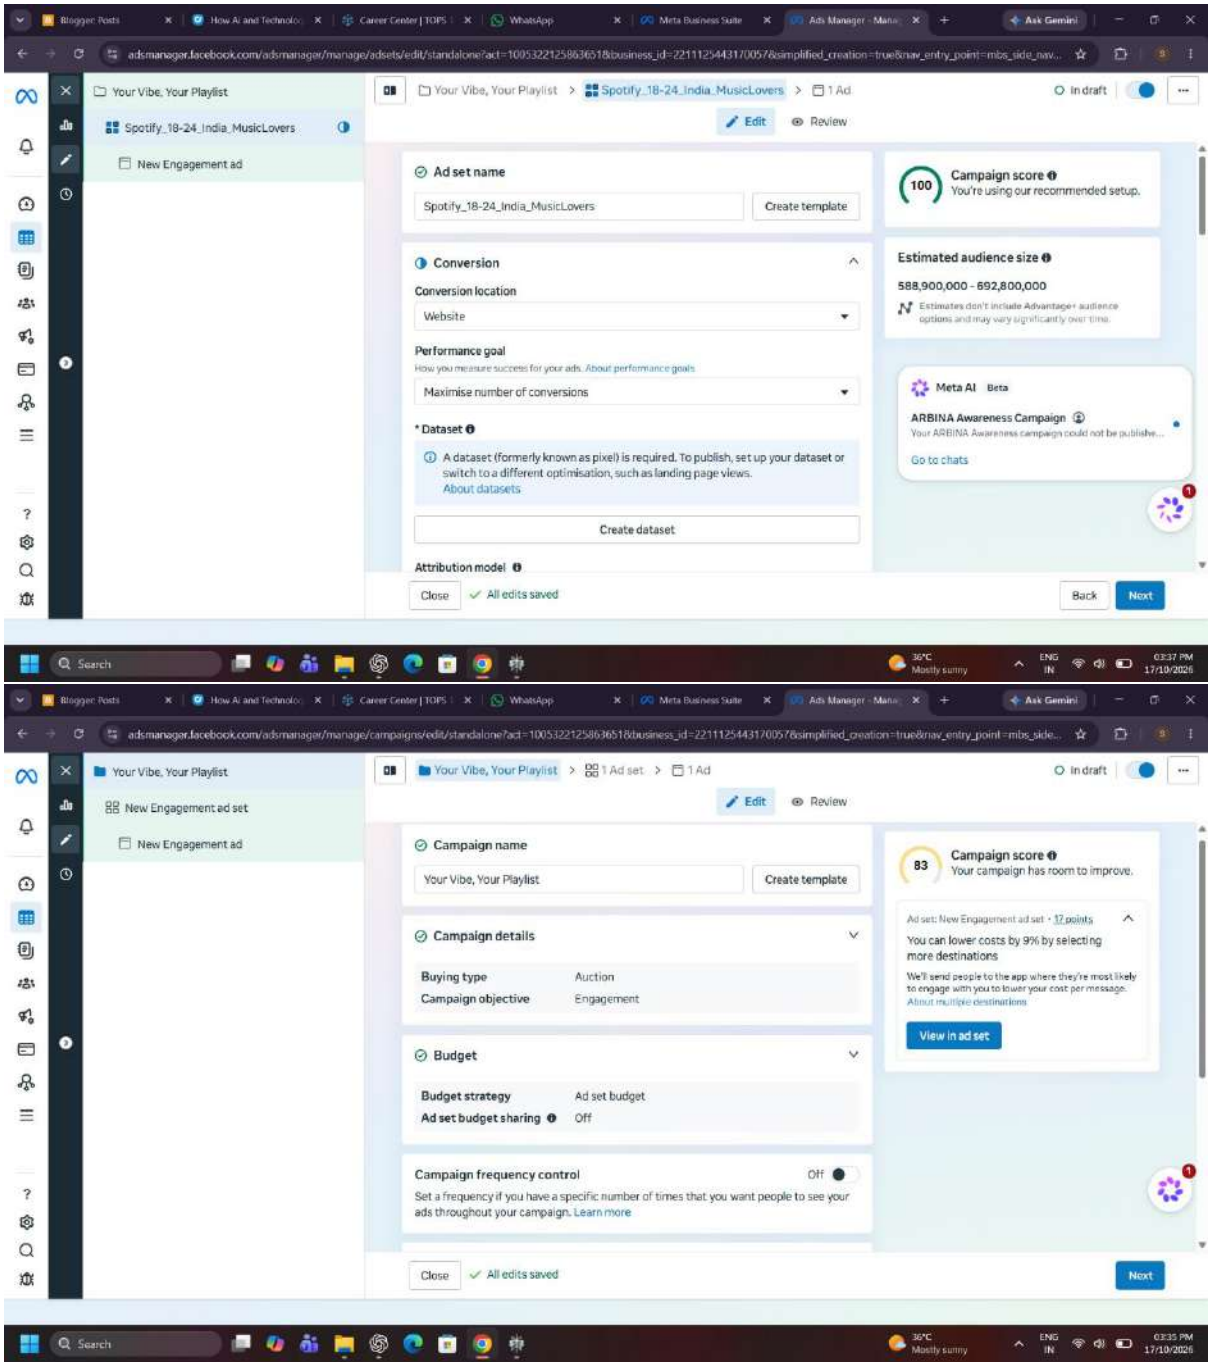

Example: A restaurant could test a biryani video, a pizza promotion, and a discount offer, each with a WhatsApp call-to-action, and compare which ad generates more inquiries and orders.

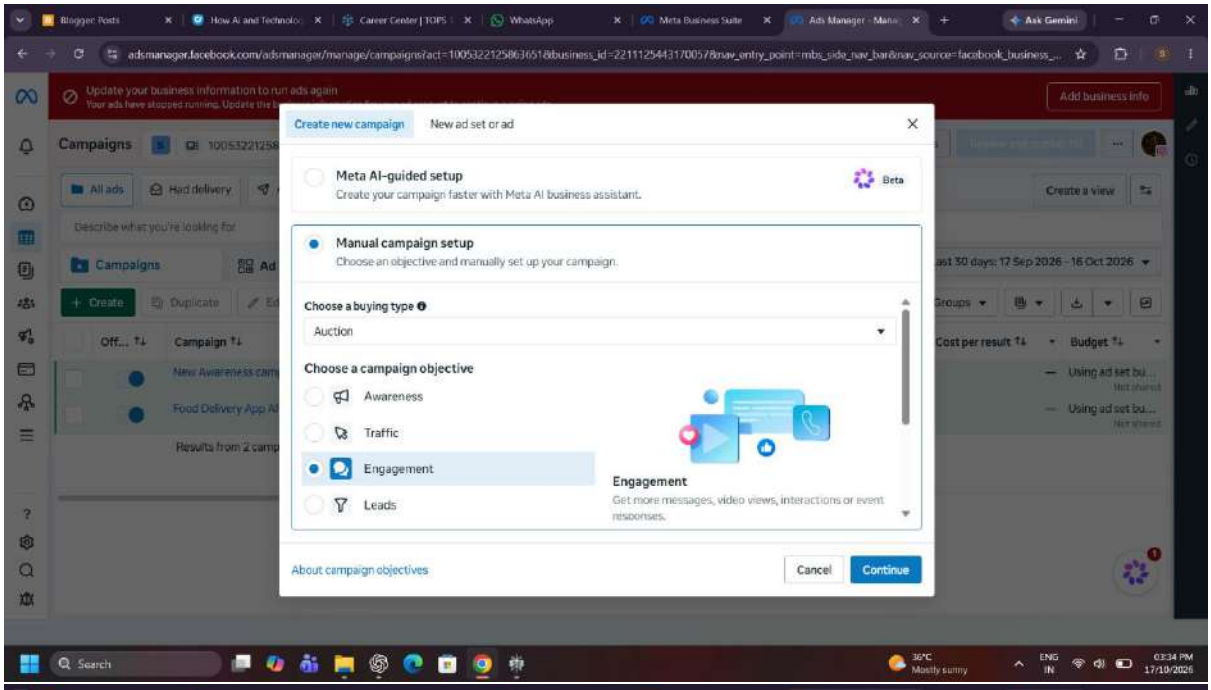

Conclusion: Andromeda encourages businesses to use AI-driven targeting and diverse creative testing to improve advertising relevance and campaign results. Its direct role is in Meta's ad delivery system, not in WhatsApp's automated reply functionality.

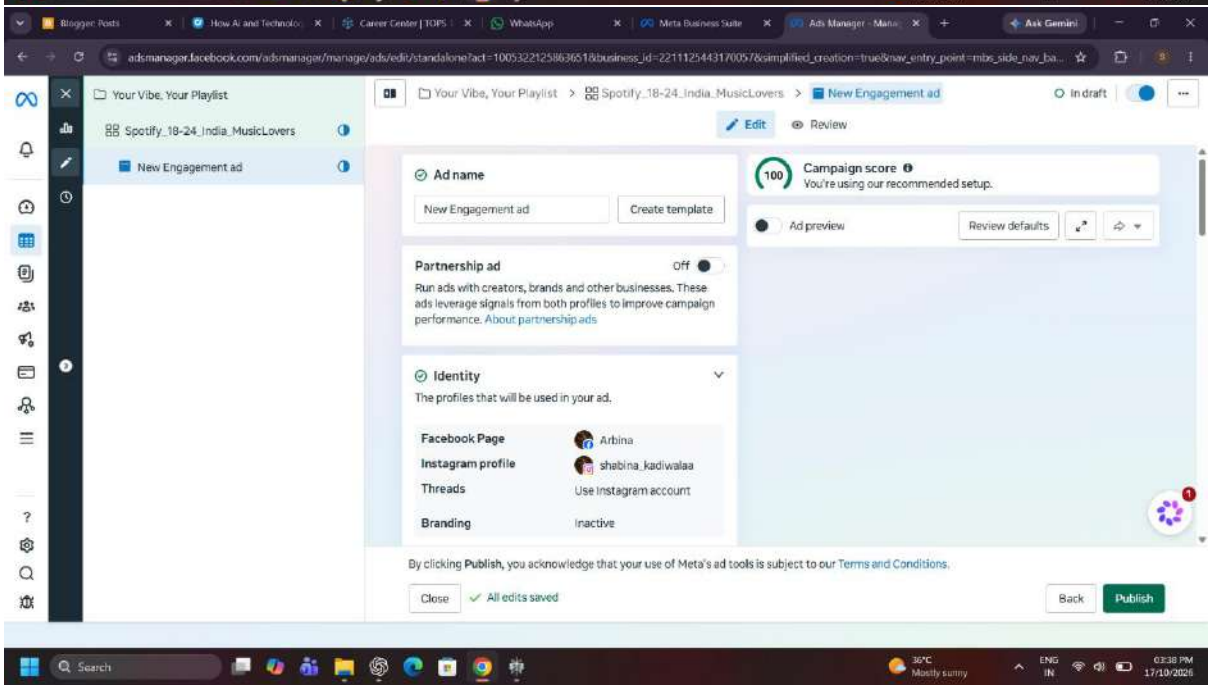

Task 5: Plan for Managing Multiple Clients Using AI and Automation in 2026

1. Campaign planning: Use AI tools such as ChatGPT to create content calendars, captions, and marketing strategies tailored to each client's business goals.
2. WhatsApp automation: Use WATI or AiSensy to automate greetings, answer common questions, collect leads, and send order updates.
3. Instagram management: Use AI tools to generate post ideas, captions, reels scripts, and creative variations for different client accounts.
4. Facebook advertising: Use Meta Ads Manager and Advantage+ tools to run campaigns, test creatives, and optimize advertising performance.
5. Scheduling and publishing: Use Meta Business Suite to schedule posts and manage Facebook and Instagram content across multiple clients.
6. Performance tracking: Use analytics dashboards and AI-assisted reporting to monitor reach, engagement, leads, conversions, and return on ad spend.
7. Continuous optimization: Review campaign results weekly, improve underperforming content, and allocate budgets toward the strategies that deliver the best results.

Task 2:

7-Day Spotify Campaign Calendar

Day	Platform	Post Type	Posting Time (IST)	One-Line Description
Day 1 – Monday	Instagram	Reel	7:00 PM	Launch the campaign with a fast-paced reel showing different moods—workout, study, travel, and chill—matched to Spotify playlists.
Day 2 – Tuesday	Instagram	Carousel	12:30 PM	Share “5 Spotify Features You Should Use Today,” including personalized playlists, podcasts, and offline listening.
Day 3 – Wednesday	X (Twitter)	Poll	6:00 PM	Ask: “What do you listen to most on Spotify?” with options: Songs, Podcasts, Audiobooks, or Curated playlists.
Day 4 – Thursday	Instagram	Story Quiz	8:00 PM	Run a “Guess the Song from One Lyric” quiz with a swipe-up/link sticker to open Spotify.
Day 5 – Friday	Instagram	Reel	7:30 PM	Post a “Friday Night Playlist” reel featuring energetic music visuals and a CTA to save the playlist.

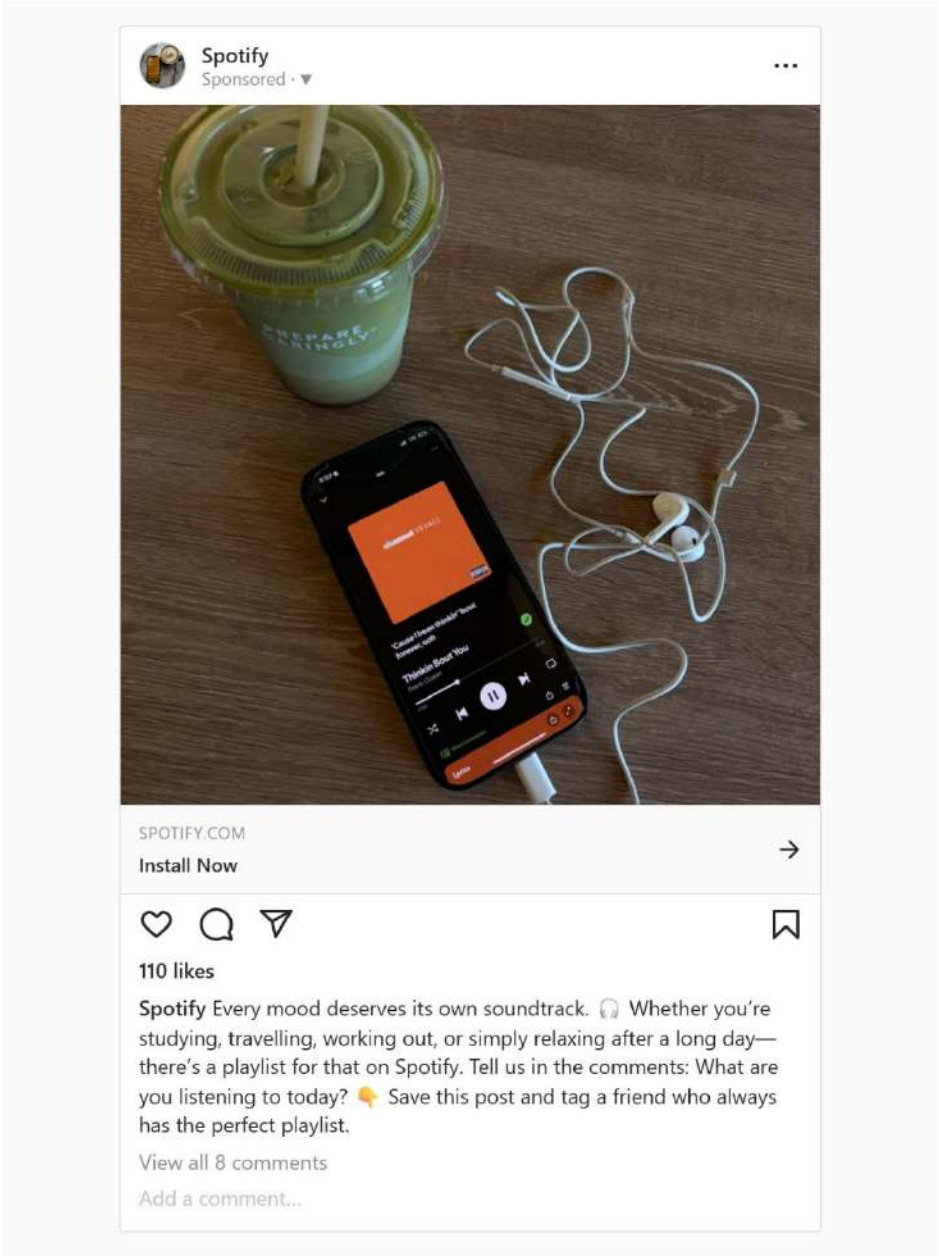

Day	Platform	Post Type	Posting Time (IST)	One-Line Description
Day 6 – Saturday	Facebook	Image Post	11:00 AM	Share a vibrant graphic inviting users to create and share their own “My Music Mood” playlist.
Day 7 – Sunday	Instagram + X	Story + Reel	7:00 PM	Close the week with a “Share Your Top 3 Songs” prompt, encouraging followers to post their Spotify screenshots with #YourMusicYourMood.

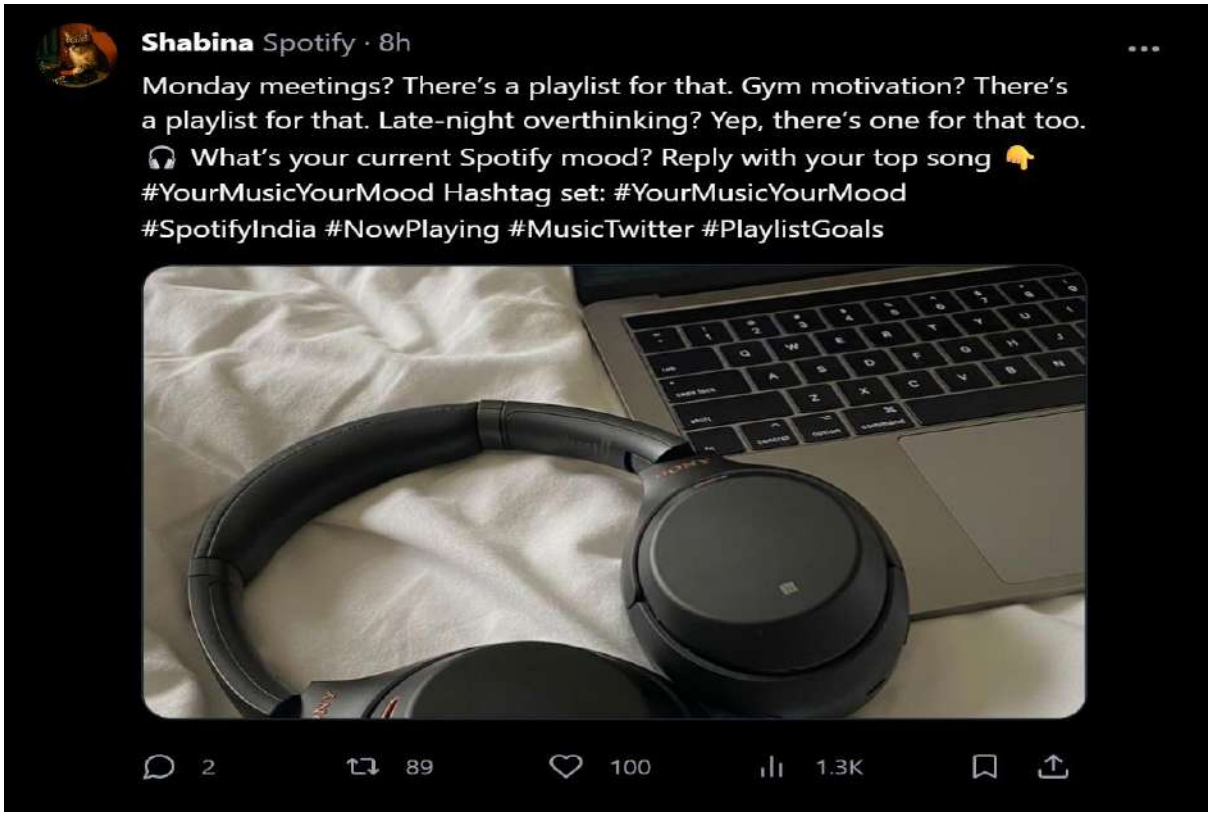

Why This Works

- Personalized, visually attractive content encourages users to share their music identity, similar to Spotify Wrapped’s social-sharing success.
- Interactive formats such as polls, quizzes, and share prompts increase engagement and make the campaign feel user-generated.
- Evening posting times align with common Indian social-media activity windows, especially around 6–9 PM IST.

Use hashtags such as #YourMusicYourMood #SpotifyIndia #MusicForEveryMood #PlaylistGoals.

Task 4:

Metric	How It Helps Evaluate the Strategy
Reach	Shows how many unique users saw the Spotify campaign, helping measure brand awareness.
Engagement Rate	Tracks likes, comments, shares, saves, poll votes, and quiz responses to assess whether the content connects with the audience.
Click-Through Rate / App Installs	Measures how effectively posts drive users to click the Spotify link, open the app, or install it—showing campaign conversion.
